BORDER GUARDED BY 3,000 TROOPS OF UNITED STATES

Ready to Interfere, if Mexicans in Impending Battle Fire Across the Border.

VILLA HAS 18,000 MEN

Expected to Attack Carranza Garrison at Agua Prieta Today or Monday.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 30.—Three thousand men of the United States infantry brigade, entrenched today within a few feet of the Mexican boundary, ready to interfere if an attack on the Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta, Sonora, by the Villa army expected Sunday or Monday, should result in shooting into American territory. Brig. Gen. Thomas F. Davis, commander, said he would take every precaution to prevent any firing into Douglas. "I do not propose to see an American town shot up," he said.

Villa's advance guard, under Col. Thomas Franco, reached San Bernardino, 20 miles east of the border, today. Colonel Franco said Villa was in personal command of the army. Gen. P. Elias Calles, commanding Agua Prieta, received reinforcements late today. The first of nine trains bearing troops and equipment from Laredo, Texas, arrived. It bore field guns, ammunition and vehicles of all sorts. Other trains were expected tonight and tomorrow.

Col. Franco declared Villa felt friendly toward Americans and desired to avoid trouble. Villa, Franco added, had 18,000 men and 63 1.4-inch field guns. The movement of the American troops from the camp two miles east of Douglas to points along the border began this afternoon.

The American trenches begin at a point a few feet west of the United States custom house and within less than 20 yards of the Carranza trenches at the rear of Agua Prieta. Mexicans working in these long trenches dropped their picks and shovels and joined the throngs of gesticulating Mexican men, women and children watching the work of the American troops.

Twenty-two Americans from El Tigre, 70 miles southeast of here, for whose safety fears were expressed, crossed the border today at Naco, Ariz.

TROOP TRAIN FIRED UPON.

Fight in New Mexico Between Villa and Carranza Forces Is Reported.

El Paso, Texas, Oct. 30.—Reports were received late tonight that a train of Carranza troops bound for Douglas, Ariz., was fired on by Villa forces and that a running fight was waged near Columbus, N. M., about 70 miles west of here. General Pershing, commanding at Fort Bliss, said he was in telephone communication with Columbus, but had not heard of any firing upon the train.

Two equipment trains and two troop trains, each containing a battalion of Carranza soldiers, passed through here today under guard of United States troops for Douglas. Two trains are held here tonight for departure at daybreak, because of the possibility of an attack by Villa cavalry during the night. Two more trains are expected to pass through early tomorrow.

The arrival and departure of the Carranza troops was marked in Juarez by a sudden dispatch of Villa troops westward along the border. When the movement was noticed, a battery of artillery was thrown into position on the Mesa, back of this city, while a detachment of United States cavalry started a patrol on the border a few miles west. On their return they reported the Villa cavalry still traveling westward.

Two troops of the eighth cavalry were ordered tonight to reinforce the border patrol between El Paso and Noria, N. M., 26 miles west of here to guard the tracks of the El Paso-Southwestern railroad.

DeLAROSA ABANDONS MEN.

Announcement Says Alleged Bandit Leader Has Gone Into Interior.

Brownsville, Texas, Oct. 30.—Luis De Larosa, alleged leader of recent bandit raids on the lower Texas border, had abandoned his men and fled into the interior of Tamaulipas, according to an official announcement today by Gen. Eugenio Lopez, commander of the Matamoras garrison.

General Lopez said DeLarosa was reported to have broken with his men, when Carranza soldiers began pressing them two days ago. He was declared to have said he would rather be taken by Americans than by Mexicans and forthwith forsook the border country. His men subsequently scattered into the brush.

DEMAND WHITLOCK'S RECALL?

Statements Published in Germany Attract Attention of Officials.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Berlin dispatches reflecting published statements in Germany demanding the recall of Brand Whitlock, American minister of Belgium, because of his reports on the execution of Miss Edith Cavell, the British nurse, attracted attention of administration officials here, but elicited no comment further than statements that the United States had no official intimation from Germany that Mr. Whitlock no longer was acceptable. The German dispatches made a point of the fact that the seat of the Belgium government is no longer at Brussels but at Havre and suggested that Mr. Whitlock should be at the latter place.

CARRANZA DESIRES TO DEAL DIRECTLY

In Settling Matters With Foreign Governm[illegible]

AND NOT THROU[illegible] U. S.

State Department Ap[illegible] Course —Policy May Hasten [illegible]gnition by European Pow[illegible] Villa to Protect Ame[illegible].

Washington, Oct. 30.—General Carranza has made it clear through the foreign office of his government that he does not desire to deal with European governments through the United States, and State Department officials are in accord with his course. European powers which have not yet recognized the de facto government have been transmitting representations through American officials in Mexico. General Carranza now desires that foreign governments deal directly with him in the future.

This policy is expected to hasten recognition of the Carranza government by the European powers. Thomas B. Hohler, British charge in the affairs in Mexico, now in the United States, will start soon for Mexico to extend the recognition of Great Britain. Austria already has recognized Carranza and there have been indications that Russia, France and Japan will follow suit.

General Carranza's action is not understood here to apply to matters of vital consequence in which the United States, as the nearest neighbor and friend to Mexico, would continue to exercise its good offices.

The State Department statement today of conditions in Mexico reveals that Americans in Sonora are not in as great danger as had been reported, assurances having come from Villa officials that there would be ample protection for them.

ENDORSE DEFENSE PROGRAMME

Army and Navy Officers and Writers at Dinner in New York.

New York, Oct. 30.—President Wilson's programme on adequate defense received the endorsement of army and navy officers from the posts and vessels in and about New York city and a company of writers at the Yale club, here tonight, where they were guests at dinner of Paul Thompson, one of the justices of the American Defense society. Cushing Stetson, secretary of the board of trustees of the American defense society; Cleveland Moffett and Henry Reuterdahl were among the speakers.

ACTRESS NEAR DEATH.

Blanche Walsh in Hospital—Doctors Expect Death Any Moment.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 30.—Blanche Walsh, actress, who in private life is Mrs. W. H. Travers, is near death at a hospital here. She had been playing in vaudeville and became ill two weeks ago following her appearance at a local theatre. She went to the hospital but left to fulfill other engagements. She was formed to return to the hospital and doctors tonight said her death was expected at any moment.

New York, Oct. 30.—Richard H. Reid, stock broker and member of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, committed suicide by inhaling gas today in his Brooklyn home. Reid is said to have lost heavily on war stocks and today the exchange was investigating his alleged insolvency.

SUPPORT FOR DEFENSE PRACTICALLY ASSURED

Garrison Convinces Guardsmen of Wisdom of Plan.

Individual Expressions of Committee Indicate That National Guard Will Favor Proposals of Army.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Support of the National Guardsmen of the country for the administration's defense plans, including the formation of a continental army, was virtually assured today at the conclusion of a two-day conference between Secretary Garrison and members of the executive committee of the National Guard Association and the National Militia Board.

Some opposition to the continental army scheme developed yesterday when the conference began but Secretary Garrison was successful in convincing the guardsmen of the wisdom of the plan and also that no steps would be spared to promote the interests of the National Guard because of the new plan.

General Forster, of the Florida National Guard, chairman of the executive committee, issued a statement saying that while the National Guard officers felt they could not in their representative capacity with expression with regard to all of the proposals embraced in the plan until it had been fully considered by the organization which they represent, individual expressions indicate that the sentiment of the National Guard would be favorable to the Secretary of War's recommendations.

TAKES NO PART IN AFFAIRS IN CHINA

United States Silent on Re-Establishing Monarchy.

ALLIES' EFFORTS FAIL

British, Russian and Japanese Ambassadors Try to Enlist America to Protest—Believe Revolt Would Follow Change.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Great Britain, Russia and Japan, it became known tonight have made unsuccessful efforts to enlist the aid of the United States to prevent the establishment of a new monarchy in China and the abandonment of the republican form of government. Conversations between Secretary Lansing and ambassadors of the three powers failed to elicit from the Washington government any expression on the proposed change. The United States takes the position that it cannot with propriety express an opinion on the internal concerns of sovereign state and that the Chinese should be left free to work out the problem.

It was reported by the Allies that the question involves a possible upset of the political equilibrium of the far east, since a revolution was certain to follow such a change. Any convulsion in China, it was pointed out, in view of the disturbed political conditions of the world, might prove embarrassing.

Might Give Advice to China.

The fact that the American government had lent its support to the republic when it was created, being the first to extend recognition, was relied upon by the powers as likely to influence the United States to interest itself in the present situation. While the United States would not interfere at this time, its attitude does not preclude the possibility that if the Chinese government itself asks for American views or advice, it would be given. As a matter of fact, official sentiment has not crystallized definitely here as to the merits of the change.

That the subject is likely to develop more importance as the November date for the assembling of the citizens' convention in China approaches, is evident from the efforts being made by the Allies to persuade President Yuan Shi Kai to issue a decree postponing a decison of the question indefinitely.

Think it Influence of Germany.

The theory was advanced among allied diplomats here that China is being influenced indirectly by Germany, in the hope that Japan's attention will be concentrated on a possible revolutionary outburst in China with the resultant suspension of ammunition shipments from Japan to Russia. There is nothing, however, to indicate Germany's attitude toward the change of government in China.

NINE EXECUTIONS FOR ESPIONAGE IT BELGIUM

Ten Others Were Sentenced to Penal Servitude.

Twenty-One Persons, Including Four Women, Have Been Arrested —Wife of French Officer is Alleged Leader.

London, Oct. 30.—Nine persons who were convicted on October 26 of espionage in Belgium were executed yesterday, according to the Amsterdam correspondent of Reuters Telegram Company, who says this information was received in an official telegram from Berlin. Ten other people, including three women, were sentenced to penal servitude, it is stated.

The correspondent's dispatch follows:

"An official telegram from Berlin states that in the last few days two additional important espionage cases have been detected in Belgium and northern France. In Belgium 21 persons have been arrested.

"It is alleged that after having confined their energies for some months to obtain news from the espionage and sending it to France by way of Holland they became bolder in September, planning to dynamite railways and buildings, besides assisting persons of military age to escape from Belgium to France. Among those arrested are four women, the principal charge against them being that they were endangering the safety of the German army.

"The espionage system reported to have been discovered in France is alleged to have been managed by the wife of a French officer. It is charge wife of a French officer. It is charged that she received her instruction direct from the French military authorities. Two other women are also under arrest and, according to Berlin, the extent to which the system of espionage is organized is indicated by the fact that the arrested persons figure prominently in the French secret service list."

The guilt of the accused, it is stated, already has been established. Nine persons, the passage adds, were tried for espionage in Belgium, on October 26. All were found guilty and were sentenced to death. The sentence was

THIRTY INDICTED ON FELONY CHARGE

Brewing Companies Also are Named in Election Plot.

SLUSH FUND ALLEGED

Men, Including High Brewing Officials, Are Charged With Conspiracy to Corrupt "Wet" and "Dry" Election Last May.

Sullivan, Ind., Oct. 30.—Charging a conspiracy to commit a felony in the "wet" and "dry" election here last May, thirty men, including high officials of brewing companies and a Japanese, were indicted by the Sullivan county grand jury here today. Separate indictments were returned against the Terre Haute Brewing Company, of Terre Haute; the F. W. Cook Brewing Company, of Evansville, and the Anheuser Busch Brewing Association, of St. Louis, charging cooperation.

Among the brewing company officials named were: Gus B. Mahan, secretary-treasurer of the Cook company; Adolph Maier, secretary of the Terre Haute Company, and Walter G. Himmelbauer, assistant to Maier. George Wheeler, Terre Haute saloonkeeper, and former Central League ball player, and Ben Whittington, a justice of the peace, were also indicted.

It is alleged in the indictments that the "wets" raised a slush fund to be used for importing voters and buying votes. The money paid for votes is said to have ranged from 50 cents to $9 each. The brewing companies are charged with contributing to the fund. Whittington's office is alleged to have been the headquarters of the conspiracy.

WILL ARBITRATE DISPUTE

Agreement Reached by Rev. Dr. Hillis and His Secretary.

New York, Oct. 30.—To avoid a public controversy which it was feared might endanger the welfare of the church, Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, whose pulpit was once occupied by Henry Ward Beecher, and Frank L. Ferguson, for about five years Dr. Hillis' confidential business administrator, agreed today to submit their differences to arbitration.

All matters in dispute are to be settled out of court by a board of three arbitrators. Public discussion of the charges and counter-charges of the past weeks is to cease.

LASSEN PEAK AGAIN ERUPTING.

Accounts Agree That Four or Five Craters Are in Action.

Red Bluff, Cal., Oct. 30.—Lassen Peak burst into eruption tonight. From the southern, western and eastern slopes of the mountain reports of the volcano's outbursts were telephoned to Forest Supervisor Rusing, at Mineral, about 40 miles from this city. All the accounts agreed that four or five craters were active and that flames of rocks were thrown from all craters.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 30.—Princeton defeated Williams here today in a football game marked by few features, 27 to 0. Repeated fumbles on the part of the visitors, wretched punting by Overton and poor generalship on the part of the quarterbacks on both sides made the game a listless display of only fair football.

GOVERNMENT WILL NOT HASTEN PROSECUTIONS

In Cases Against Robert Fay and Associates.

Government Yet Lacks Evidence on Part of Fay's Confession—Cases Go Before Federal Grand Jury Wednesday.

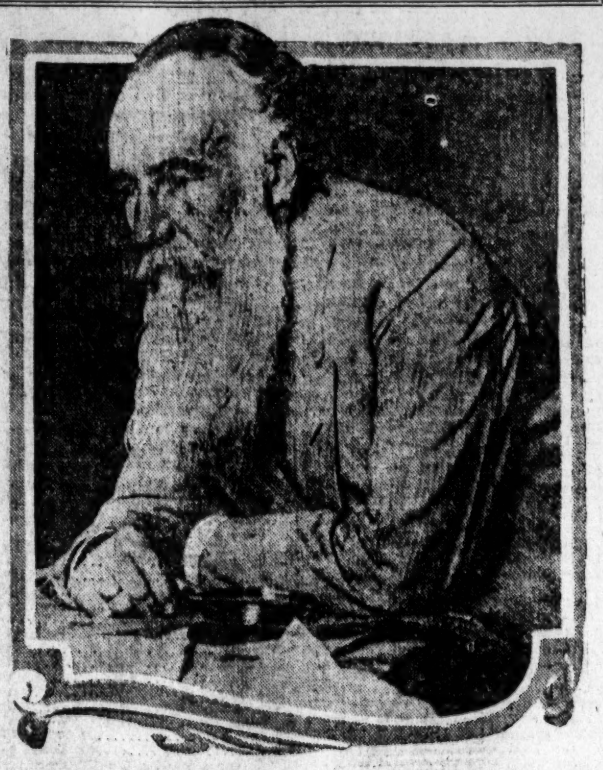
New York, Oct. 30.—Although the cases of Robert Fay, the confessed German plotter, and four other men charged with conspiracy to blow up steamers bearing supplies to the Allies probably will be taken before the Federal grand jury next Wednesday, United States District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall said today the government would not hasten prosecutions.

Fay's associations, his purchases of explosives, experiments with bombs and his sources of financial aid, together with his previous standing in Germany, Mr. Marshall said, are to be made the subject of minute inquiry. So far there was no evidence to show that Fay acted on other than his own responsibility, he added:

Only the completest verification of all that Fay has said in his confession will determine whether or not there are to be more arrests," said Mr. Marshall. Stories that, besides disabling merchant ships bound for the Allies' ports, which he confessed was his purpose, Fay intended to attempt to disable British war vessels near New York, Mr. Marshall declared, were without any support in evidence obtained by the government.

Charles Warren, assistant to the attorney general, who came here from Washington, discussed the Fay case with Mr. Marshall today. Mr. Warren said he came here only to familiarize himself with the details of the cases.

Serbia's Grand Old Man Made Final Plea to Allies to Save His Country



This photograph shows the grand old man of Serbia, Premier Pashich, looking on maps of the progress of the war about two weeks before he made this last plea to the Allies to send troops to save his country from the Austrians, Germans and Bulgarians:

"Serbia is making superhuman efforts to defend her existence in response to the advice and desire of her great allies. For this she is condemned to death by the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians. For 20 days our common enemy has tried to annihilate us.

"In spite of the heroism of our soldiers our resistance cannot be expected to be maintained indefinitely. We beg of you and the many friends of Serbia in England to do everything you can to insure your troops reaching us as soon as possible, that they may help our army, and that we may defend together the common cause which is now so gravely menaced."

The plea was sent to London, and it was published on the day Lord Lansdowne admitted in the House of Lords that so far Great Britain had sent only 13,000 troops to Saloniki to help the Serbs.

STRONG ALLIED FORCES TO RELIEVE SERBIANS; NAVAL ENGAGEMENT IN BLACK SEA

Three Russian Battleships Reported to Have Been Attacked by Turkish Warships—Austro-Germans Advance Further Into Serbian Territory—Russian Resistance Firm in Riga—Summary of War News.

Strong allied forces are on the way to the relief of the hard pressed Serbians and to bar, if possible, the advance of the Central Powers through the Balkans, according to reports from various quarters. Berlin has a report that Russia has embarked a large contingent of troops from Odessa and Sebastopol for the Bulgarian Black Sea coast, probably with the intention of landing them at Varna, recently bombarded by Russian warships. British troops from Saloniki are reported to have already effected a junction with the Serbians.

Almost coincident with the report that the Russians are sending transports with troops through the Black Sea for the purpose of making a landing on the Bulgarian coast, comes the unofficial statement that a naval engagement between Turkish and Russian warships has taken place in these waters.

A message received in Berlin from Bucharest reports that the Turkish warships Mudillu, Sultan Semlin (formerly the German cruisers Breslau and Goeben) and Hamidieh attacked a Russian squadron of three battleships and several cruisers and destroyers in the Black sea. No further details are given. It is possible that theRussian squadron was acting as a convoy for the transports and that the Turks intercepted the Russian vessels.

The concentration of Entente troops with the object of relieving the pressure being exerted on the Serbians by the Teutonic and Bulgarian forces from three sides is proceeding, according to a news dispatch from Saloniki. Additional transports are expected to reach Saloniki soon.

Transport Germans Through Bulgaria.

The Bulgarians are said to be preparing special trains to transport German troops over the Bulgarian railway to Constantinople through Thrace. Already war munitions have been despatched to the Turkish capital.

The execution by the German military authorities in Belgium of nine persons convicted of espionage is reported officially from Berlin, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to London. Ten other persons, including three women, were sentenced to penal servitude.

The Overseas News Agency, in a semi-official dispatch from Berlin, reports the arrival of King Constantine of Greece at Saloniki.

Meanwhile, the advance on the Austro-Germans from the north continues, further progress and the capture of 1,000 prisoners and several cannon being recorded by Berlin. On the East the Bulgarians are reported marching toward Nish after capturing Pirot, the stronghold which barred their road from the Bulgarian border. Sofia declares the war on the Serbians is likely soon to assume the nature of siege operations as the Serbians are on the point of being completely cut off.

Russian resistance in the Riga district evidently is holding firm and the Germans admit a retirement south across the Missa near Palaknen after they had advanced on the northern bank of that stream. Palaknen is about 11 miles directly south of Riga.

In the southern sector of the eastern front General von Linsingen is reported on the offensive and is gaining ground against the Russians in Galicia, besides capturing nearly 1,000 prisoners. The latest Russian statement declared the situation in this sector was essentially unchanged.

Berlin reports nothing of moment has occurred on the western front since the previous statement. Paris declares the Germans were beaten off in violent counter attacks made in an effort to gain positions near LaCourtine in the Champagne.

Reports from the Austro-Italian front are conflicting, the Italians later claiming substantial gains, while Vienna records a series of repulses for the invading forces.

Sinking of the British mine sweeper Hythe, in a collision with a British war vessel off the Gallipoli peninsula, with the probable loss of 155 lives was announced by the British admiralty.

"A DREADNAUGHT FOR EVERY STATE IN UNION"—PENROSE

Senator, in Speech, Declares Himself in Favor of Preparedness.

Philadelphia, Oct. 30.—United States Senator Boies Penrose in an address at the unveiling of a monument here today to the memory of George McK. Poinsett, one of the sailors killed in action at Vera Cruz in the spring of 1914, declared himself in favor of National preparedness and said there should be a dreadnought for every state in the Union. He said:

"The question of National preparedness is a non-partisan one and ought to appeal to all patriotic Americans. To make a beginning we should have a dreadnought for every State in the Union. Then, of course, there should be an entire naval programme following from this nucleus. We should have great naval bases at proper intervals along the Pacific, the Gulf and Atlantic, and in the islands in the east. "We should have a naval academy on the Pacific coast, and the service for the enlisted men should be made as attractive as possible, with opportunity for promotion, so that a large proportion of the enlisted men will remain in the navy."

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 30.—Mrs. Helen M. Angle, who secured a divorce in February, 1911, on the ground of desertion from her husband, Frank W. Angle, of this city, was re-married to him here today. Mrs. Angle some months ago was acquitted on the charge of being responsible for the death of a friend, Waldo Ballou, who fell down a staircase in the building in Stamford, in which were her apartments.

MOUNTAINS AIDING SERBS IN RETREAT

French Strengthen Serbian Line Near Strumitsa.

RUSSIAN AID RUMORED

Preparations to Attempt Landing Into Bulgaria From Black Sea Reported—Teutons Reported Evacuating Volhynia.

London, Oct. 30.—Only the mountainous character of the country in which they are fighting is saving Serbia's retreating troops from annihilation. Except for the French strengthening of the Serbian line near Strumitsa, the allied reinforcements have not reached her hard-pressed armies. Serbia's tiny neighbor and ally, Montenegro, meantime is being hammered by the Austrians who are exerting renewed pressure along the Drina near [illegible]egrad, in a movement co-ordinat[illegible]g with the general Teutonic offensive in the Balkans.

Following the Russian bombardment of the Bulgarian littoral, Russian troops are now reported to be, from the Black sea, preparatory to an attempted landing, with a view to taking the Bulgarians in the rear. These reports come from German sources, however, and are not confirmed, nor is the report of a big naval engagement in the Black sea between a Russian squadron and Turkish war craft, headed by the Goeben and Breslau.

The rumor of Russian troops to aid Serbia is generally credited in England and given the prominent place in the London evening papers. A guarded reference to the undertaking was made in a Petrograd dispatch printed this morning, which referred to the Russian emperor journeying south to give a send off to large forces of all arms."

Serbian circles in London are still making urgent appeals to the Allies to rush troops to their country's support, but the very fact that the Serbians have been able to hold out up to the present time has created a certain amount of optimism.

Neither of the great battle fronts in the east and west has furnished any marked developments. Petrograd reports tonight that the Austro-Germans are evacuating Volhynia, leaving a vast quantity of ammunition and supplies.

NAVAL BATTLE IN BLACK SEA

Turkish Warships Attack Russian Squadron, Says Message.

London, Oct. 30.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company sends the following: "A private message received in Berlin Bucharest says the Turkish warships Breslau, Goeben and Hadmieh attacked in the Black sea a Russian squadron of three battleships and several cruisers and destroyers. The result of the battle is not known."

The Breslau and the Goeben which were formerly German cruisers have been renamed the Midulla and Sultan Selim, respectively.

HESPERIAN WAS SUNK BY TORPEDO IS BELIEF

Navy Board Reports After Examining Fragment.

Government is Not Convinced and No Representations Will Accompany Report to Berlin—Gap in the Evidence.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Secretary Lansing announced today that the Navy Department had indicated that the fragment of the engine of war which sank the Allan liner Hesperian off the Irish coast was a part of a torpedo. The German government has persistently denied that the Hesperian was torpedoed. In the opinion of United States naval experts the fragment could not have been a part of a marine mine.

While the report of the navy board will be forwarded to the Berlin foreign office as a matter of information, it will not be accompanied by any representations on the part of the United States. A link is missing in the chain of evidence upon which the Washington government could found a statement that it was convinced that a torpedo sent the ship to the bottom.

The fragment was turned over to Ambassador Page by the British admiralty with the statement that it was found on the Hesperian's deck after the explosion and during her fruitless struggle to reach port before she sank. No sworn statement by the finder, however, accompanied the bit of metal and until that gap is filled it was indicated today that no representations would be made to Germany, which has consistently maintained that the steamer was not torpedoed by a German submarine.

AUBURN DEFEATS GEORGIA PLAYING STRAIGHT FOOTBALL.

Athens, Ga., Oct. 30.—Straight football triumphed here today when Auburn defeated Georgia 12 to 0. Auburn tried only four forward passes, three being successful, while Georgia attempted this play no less than 27 times. Nine were successful.

Georgia four times was within striking distance of the Auburn goal, but was held for downs. Twice in the final quarter the Red and Black players were inside Auburn's five-yard line; once only one yard from a touchdown.

CORNELL WINS A BIG VICTORY OVER V. P. I.

Virginia Tech. Eleven Beaten by Score of 45 to 0.

Cornell Reveals Great Aerial Offense—Sends Second Team to Field in Final Quarter, Which Also Scored.

Ithaca, N. Y., October 30. — Cornell piled up a score of 45 to 0 in defeating the heavy Virginia Polytechnic Institute team today and uncovered an aerial offense that proved a revelation. The big Red team showed conclusively that its victory over Harvard last Saturday was not a flash in the pan. Cornell scored her first touchdown soon after Captain Barrett tore off a fake kick run of 30 yards. Collins, Shiverick and Mueller punctured the V. P. I. line, the latter making a 21-yard dash, until Barrett carried the ball over.

The second touchdown in the first period was made in a similar manner. In the second period V. P. I. held Cornell for downs on the former's one-yard line, but Cornell soon rushed the ball back and Shiverick hit right tackle for 15 yards and a score. For the fourth touchdown, which came in the same period, Barrett hurled long forward passes with precision, Eckley finally hugging on as he sped over the line.

In the third period Cool intercepted a forward pass on V. P. I.'s 36 yard line. After the ball was rushed to the one-yard line, Cool and Quarterback Barrett changed places and Cool scored. Forward passes brought forth Cornell's sixth touchdown, Barrett, Shiverick and Shelton starring in the style of play.

The second team went into the game in the final quarter and Shock, subquarterback, tore off several long runs and then scored.

VIRGINIA HOLDS V. M. I. HELPLESS AND WINS 44 TO 0.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 30.—With the back field showing its best form of the season and the line impregnable, Virginia defeated the eleven from the Virginia Military Institute today 44 to 0, obtained by six touchdowns, five goals and one field goal. Thirteen points were scored in the first quarter; 21 in the second; 7 in the third, and three in the fourth. The cadets were helpless on the offense, the ball being kept in their territory practically all of the time, except near the close of the fourth period when they made their only first down. A forward pass to McCormick netting 35 yards. Thurman gave a superb exhibition of punting while Mayer, Ed Anderson and Berkeley made spectacular runs. Though outweighed the visitors put up a plucky fight and made a desperate effort to score in the final period by resorting to long forward passes.

YALE IS BEATEN BY COLGATE NOT BEING ALLOWED TO SCORE

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 30.—Colgate's unbeaten eleven played true to form today and had no difficulty in defeating Yale 15 to 0. Yale was outclassed completely and the score does not indicate the real strength of the visitors. The points came from two touchdowns—both made after sensational runs—and an easy goal from placement by West. Yale's attack was weak and spasmodic and Colgate's goal was never in danger.

SCHOONER ON LONG VOYAGE

Boston, Mass., Oct. 30.—The six-masted schooner Edward J. Lawrence left today to begin a voyage which is expected to return to her owners $52,500 said to be the highest rate ever paid an American schooner for carrying coal. The schooner has been chartered to transport five thousand tons of coal from Norfolk to Barcelona, Spain.

A. AND M. IS WINNER FROM NAVY 14 TO 12

Shows Superiority in Defensive and Offensive.

Aggies Did All Their Scoring in First Two Periods of the Game—Secretary and Mrs. Daniels Witness Contest.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 30.—North Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical College defeated Navy today 14 to 12. During the first two periods, when they did all their scoring, the Aggies showed marked superiority to the Middies in defensive and offensive work.

Straight football won the visitors' first touchdown. The second score in the second period was made when Bonner recovered the ball after Westphal for Navy had fumbled an Aggie punt on his own 25-yard line. The muff of the punt of the out first goal and miss of the second goal presented Navy from tieing the score.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Mrs. Daniels witnessed the game.

HARVARD DEFEATS THE PENN STATE ELEVEN, SCORE 13 TO 0.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 30.—With a stubborn defense in the danger zone, and a sturdy but not brilliant offense, Harvard defeated Penn State College today 13 to 0.

One Crimson touchdown was the result of a muffed punt by Ewing in Penn's backfield, while the second score came on a well earned march of 50 yards. It has been years since such a fast and smashing attack has been hurled at Harvard and while the Cambridge team wavered in midfield before the charge of Penn forwards and the quick shifting runs of Berryman and Clark, it had the vitality to stop the visitors twice on the ten-yard line and again on the 25-yard line.

LaFAYETTE GIVES PENNSYLVANIA ELEVEN THIRD DEFEAT OF SEASO

Philadelphia, Oct. 30.—Pennsylvania's football eleven met defeat today for the third time this season, her conqueror this time being LaFayette. The score was 17 to 0. Pennsylvania carried the ball about four times as far as LaFayette, but she lost through fumbling and bad judgment in running off plays.

LaFayette scored a field goal and two touchdowns, the first by a recovered fumble and the second by a forward pass.

LOCALS WIN BY BIG SCORE

Wilmington Football Team Had Little Trouble Defeating Newbern Boys. An Interesting Game.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Wilmington High School was able to score almost at will from the Newbern team in the game of football at Hilton Park yesterday afternoon, the score being 117 to 6, the contest was full of interest to the several hundred spectators, for although the visitors were outclassed both in weight and in skill, they were full of pluck and put up a stubborn defense.

Newbern's single point was made by Charlie Ives, who played left halfback. Tom Bagley, for a locals, who will undoubtedly make the all-State fullback, if he keeps up his present pace, made several touchdowns. Last, but not least, was Capt. Rock Hall, of the Wilmington team, who made more touchdowns than any other member of his team while Grant also came in for several.

For Newbern, Taylor was probably the brightest star while McWhorter, Armstrong and Ives played the game exceedingly well. Every member of the team showed themselves to be possessed of the true spirit of sport.

Every man on the Wilmington team did his best, of course, and that meant much. All played with energy and confidence and showed the results of the training received at the hands of Coach Shaw. Ike Silverman and Rock Hall distinguished themselves in broken field running.

The Wilmington boys thoroughly enjoyed having the visitors in the city and it was a source of pleasure to them to entertain the visiting team. Upon their arrival in the city, the Newbern boys were met at the station by a dozen or more automobiles and taken for a tour of the city. The members of both teams were entertained at the Hallowe'en party at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Manager Andrew Harriss hopes to have a game here with Raleigh High School next Saturday. Definite plans will be announced later. Raleigh may prove to be a Jonah, having defeated Wilmington last year, but the slogan with the Wilmington boys is "Down with Raleigh and on to Chapel Hill."

The Score.

ARMY LOSES HARD FOUGHT CONTEST TO VILLA NOVA.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 30.—The Army was beaten by Villa Nova today 16 to 3 in a hard fought and a cleanly contested game. The visitors outplayed the cadets at every angle except at punting where Murrill had a shade the better of it.

Villa Nova's well designed and beautifully executed series of forward passes were too much for the cadets.

Authorities Say Don't Use Liniments. Treat It Through the Blood. You Can't Rub It Out!

Whether your trouble is Sciatica, Lumbago or the dreaded Articular Rheumatism, the answer is the same. You must treat it through the blood. S. is positive proof that you can be relieved. S. S. S. is a blood tonic—a purifier that restores the blood, revitalizes it, cleanses it, makes it pure as it was before it became poisoned with impurities. S. S. May Perform Ceremony for President and Bride

Rev. C. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal church in Washington, which Mrs. Norman Galt attends, will likely perform the ceremony of marriage for her and President Wilson. So far no definite statement has come from the White House, but Washington society and those who think they know the President's plans expect such an announcement. Mrs. Galt has long attended the church, which is one of the most fashionable in the capital. Since the announcement of her engagement she has not been seen there so often.

While the date of the wedding has not been set, Washington guessers fix it about November 15.

THEATRICAL

In "Everywoman," the inspiring dramatic spectacle, which Henry W. Savage will offer here shortly, the virtues and vices which a woman encounters in her journey through life are personified and walk forth upon the stage properly labeled. There is no mistaking the object or intent of each one. Over one hundred and fifty people are employed in the production which is accompanied by a special symphony orchestra.

Academy Tomorrow Night.

The Manhattan Opera Company will open their week's engagement tomorrow night at the Academy of Music with a presentation of Auber's ever-popular comic opera "Fra Diavolo." This famous operatic composition is one of the most popular and tuneful ever written and it is an acknowledged fact that the melodies are as great favorites as when they were first sung. The roster of the company contains the names of a number who are well known to Wilmington audiences. Gertrude Hutchinson, formerly with "The Merry Widow" company, is the prima donna. Bertha Holly, mezzo soprano, for five seasons with Elsie Janis and Fritzi Scheff in leading roles. Fred Holly for several seasons was leading tenor with the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company. Gus Vaughn, tenor, with "The Chocolate Soldier" and "The Bohemian Girl" companies. Rudolf Koch, tenor with the Henry W. Savage production of the "Girl From the Golden West." Robert Fisher, basso, formerly associated with the Aborn Opera Company. Lee Eddie, tenor, and Charles Laughlin, basso, who were formerly with Frohman and Shubert productions. The complete roster of the company numbers twenty people with an excellent and capable singing chorus. The costume and scenic it is stated, is one of the best that is carried by any opera company now on tour. A change of bill will be given on Tuesday night at which time "The Mikado" will be presented. The prices for the nights will be 20 cents, 30 cents and 50 cents. The matinee prices for the Wednesday and Saturdays will be 10 cents for children and 20 cents and 30 cents for adults. Tickets are now selling at Plummer's. On tomorrow night, one lady will be admitted free if accompanied by a person holding a 50 cent ticket, providing ticket is purchased at Plummer's before 6 o'clock p. m. tomorrow. Free seats are limited to 200.

"September Morn."

Le Comte and Flesher will shortly present at the Academy of Music Carl George in the cyclonic dancing musical comedy "September Morn" which is a revel of fun, songs and tangoes, with Jo Taylor, "The American Baby Deslys," in dances now the rage. Carl George, Walter M. Welfitt and the smartest, swiftest cast of the season, are seen to great advantage in this new show with tunes. The chorus numbers twenty pretty girls, the scenic environment is beautiful and the costuming a real riot in color and design.

"September Morn" scored an immense hit during its run at the LaSalle Opera House, recently and comes to us in all its merry-making.

Blanche Sweet at Royal Tomorrow.

Are you two distinct persons? Is there lurking somewhere in your being another personality entirely different from the one you have now? Scientists say there is and at times it tries to appear on the surface, but the stronger will-power of your present personality drives it into seclusion; what would happen to you should the submerged personality assert itself? See what happened to winsome, sweet Dorothy, when the cruel, malicious Becky asserted herself in "The Case of Becky" that great story of pre-natal innuence, which is on at the Royal tomorrow, one of the biggest releases on the Paramount programme to date, with beautiful and clever Blanche Sweet, who starred in "The Secret Orchard."

Never before has this wonderful Paramount star been seen in a characterization of this kind. The clever transformation of face, manner and actions as she changes from Dorothy to Becky shows a new side to this versatile young artist who eclipses anything she has done before.

Supporting Miss Sweet in this master-production is a notable cast of stars, headed by that popular "matinee idol" of the screen, handsome Carlyle Blackwell, who also played with her in "The Secret Orchard" which Royal patrons will remember as the feature with which the house opened last month.

Tomorrow at the Bijou.

That veteran Universal director, J. J. Franz, has produced a great three-reel Universal feature—a wild animal drama of the African jungles and veldts which relates some of the most amazing adventures ever put on the screen—and which heads tomorrow's great six-reel bill at the Bijou. The picture comes in three great thrilling acts, with Wellington Playter, Sherman Bainbridge, Rex de Roselli and Edythe Sterling in the leading roles.

The story is from the pen of the famous author, James Oliver Curwood. He is the chap who writes of the big things of the world that he has seen and that he has lived. That is why his stories, which you read in the big magazines, are big, human, and logical and thrilling. He has lived the life of the open, where human passions are in the raw; he knows the gold coasts of Alaska, the balmy beaches of the South Seas, the black man's country in the heart of Africa; so that a Curwood picture has the ping and the punch that is more necessary in an animal picture than any other kind.

This great animal picture begins where the others leave off. There is no question as to the wildness of the animals; there is no question of the danger to the actors, and there is more realism in the scenes than you ever saw outside a Universal feature. This is just one of the big features at the Bijou tomorrow—one out of many reasons why you should not miss going.

Big Week at Victoria.

Truly a big week of music and fun is ahead of the amusement-lovers of Wilmington. The Victoria theatre announces for all this week an attraction of unusual merit and one that has proven exceedingly popular in the larger cities of the South. It is DeLoss' Masqueraders, which features the noted Southern Comedy Four. Who has not heard of this famed vaudeville act, which has made millions laugh and delighted them with the sweetest of music, rendered in the most novel and fascinating way? There are many more features, including one of the best looking and most graceful bunches of femininity, known as a chorus, that has ever been seen in Wilmington. The comedians with the company are also extra good.

This sterling attraction, a dispenser of good music and big laughs, will hold the boards in the merriest kind of way at the Victoria all week, making three changes of bills, and the repertoire of the company has been pronounced superb. The engagement will be inaugurated tomorrow afternoon at matinee, to be followed by two performances tomorrow night.

The daily matinee is especially delightful to the ladies and children.

Broncho Billy at Grand Tomorrow.

Broncho Billy is at the Grand tomorrow in his latest Western two-act drama by the Essanay company, entitled "The Convict's Threat." Mr. G. M. Anderson, who plays the part of Broncho Billy, has not been seen in Wilmington for some time past, and his many little friends will be expected to give him a hearty welcome. The play is thoroughly Western with lots of excitement and heart interest of the most compelling kind. The saving of the warden's child by a convict and his struggle with the villain at the end of the play is an exceedingly satisfactory proceeding.

"The Pollywogs Picnic" is a Ham comedy in one reel that will keep you in good spirits for the balance of your life.

Bessie Learn, Robert Walker, Margaret O'Meara and Sally Crute are the principals in an Edison one-reel drama, "When Conscience Sleeps." The dramatic qualities of this photoplay are cleverly adapted to the screen. The story is great and illustrates certain phases of life in a truthful manner.

GREAT INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS TO BE HELD

Largest and Most Comprehensive Yet in America.

Second Pan-American Scientific Congress to be Held in Washington in December—Twenty-One Republics Represented.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 30.—Announcement has been made that the preliminary arrangements are completed for the largest and most comprehensive international conference which has ever been held in the United States. From December 27, 1915, to January 8, 1916, or a period of two weeks, there will meet in Washington, D. C., the second Pan-American Scientific Congress in which all of the American republics will participate and for which preparations have been going on for nearly two years.

According to the official reports from each of the governments now in the hands of Director General John Barrett of the Pan-American Union, who is Secretary General of the Congress, each one of the twenty-one American republics will appoint delegations composed of its leading educators, economists, engineers, international lawyers, and experts on mining, agriculture, health, transportation and finance. From present indications, it is estimated that there will be in attendance over one hundred and fifty of the most representative men of Central and South America, or more than have ever participated in any other international conference held in America. From the United States, aside from its official delegation, there will be present over six hundred special representatives from its universities, colleges and scientific societies and organizations.

Already the Latin American countries are manifesting extraordinary interest in the programme while more attention is being given to it by the scientists of America than they have ever shown in any other international meeting. It, therefore, bids fair to attract world-wide attention and to mark a new era in Pan-America scientific progress.

It will be signalized by an effort to promote closer relations among the American republics along intellectual and educational lines rather than on material and political lines. In the same way that the regular International Conferences of the American Republics have developed closer political ties, and the recent Pan-American Financial Conference helped to promote better financial understanding, so correspondingly this Congress will bring the Americas more intimately together upon a high plane of intellectual, scientific, educational and social progress and intercourse. According to the opinion freely expressed by prominent Latin Americans in both the United States and South America, this conference will do more to promote practical Pan-Americanism than all the other conferences put together.

This international gathering is called the Second Pan-American Scientific Congress because the first was held in Santiago, the capital of Chile, in 1908. That was attended by hundreds of the leading scientists of the Americas, including a large delegation from the United States. When it adjourned, it unanimously agreed to hold the second in Washington. The United States government has therefore appropriated fifty thousand dollars for the expenses of the conference, and the president of the United States was authorized by Congress to invite all the other American governments to participate. The authority for the preliminary arrangements was placed in the hands of the secretary of state, who, in turn, appointed an executive committee to make all preparations of the Congress. This committee consists of:

Williams Phillips, third secretary of state and chairman ex-officio.

James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, vice chairman.

William H. Welch, president of National Academy of Sciences, honorary vice chairman.

W. H. Bixby, brigadier general, U. S. A., retired.

Philander P. Claxton, commissioner of education.

William C. Gorgas, surgeon general, U. S. A.

William H. Holmes, head curator of Smithsonian institution.

Hennen Jennings, former president of London institution Mining and Metallurgy.

George M. Rommel, chief Animal Husbandry Division, Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture.

L. S. Rowe, president of American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Robert S. Woodward, president of Carnegie institution of Washington.

This committee in turn elected as its organization and executive officials John Barrett as secretary general, and Glen Levin Swiggett, of the University of Tennessee, as assistant secretary general.

The president of the United States will welcome the delegates at the inaugural session which will be held on Monday, December 27. The president of the Congress, in accordance with international precedence which gives the presidency to the leading representative of the country where the previous conference was held, will be his Excellency Eduardo Saurez-Mujica, ambassador of Chile, who will also be the chairman of the delegation from that country.

WASHINGTON AND LEE SCORES TIE WITH INDIANA, 7 TO 7

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 30.—A series of well-executed forward passes in the second period enabled Washington and Lee to score a touchdown and tie Indiana's football eleven in today's game. The final score was 7 to 7.

Indiana's touchdown came in the first few minutes of play. McIntoch received the kickoff and, aided by perfect interference, ran the entire length of the field. The play in the second half was largely in Washington and Lee territory but Indiana lacked the power necessary to gain consistently against the visitors' strong line.

Well Known and Highly Esteemed Citizen of Southport.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Southport, N. C., Oct. 30.—Capt. William T. Haskett died at his home in Southport yesterday, October 29, in his 69th year.

Captain Haskett was a retired pilot, formerly an active member of the Pilots' Association of the Cape Fear, and well known. Failing health caused Captain Haskett to withdraw from service about six years ago. Since that time he has lived quietly at home, a gradual failing health ending in death. He was a citizen held in esteem. His wife, four daughters, two sons, a sister and two half-brothers survive him.

The funeral services were held at the home this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. C. M. Lance, of the Methodist church. Interment was in the cemetery here.

Edythe Sterling, Sherman Brainbridge, Wellington Playter and Rex de Roselli, have filmed the greatest three-reel animal drama yet released.

"The Queen OF Jungle Land"

To see Edythe Sterling stroking the head of a full grown leopard or making a pet of the biggest lion in the zoo is a thrilling sight—just one of the scenes in this great three-act startling drama.

TOP O' THE MORNING

The utter sincerity and earnestness of the rich young ruler was so clear that the Master's love was drawn out to him. And He showed His love in a way characteristic of Him in dealing with those who want to go the whole length of the true road. That is, He talked very plainly to him. There were four things to be done beforehand, He said, four starting steps into this life he was so eager to enter. Four words tell the four steps: "Go," "Sell," "Give," and "Come." —S. D. GORDON.

Why ddin't they name the serpentine dance for Oliver Twist?

The trusts which haven't been busted are strong enough to make the politicians take notice of their influence.

In next Tuesday's elections in several states we shall see whether the people are disposed to "let well enough alone."

It is now stated that Felix Diaz agitating a new revolution in Mexico. Felix is good at starting a revolution but somehow or other he does not stay around while it is going on.

LESS THAN 60 PER CENT OF A CROP

According to the New York Journal of Commerce figures, contained in its own special report of the percentage condition of cotton up to October 23, there will be less than 60 per cent of a normal crop of cotton in the South taken as a whole. During October, instead of improvement, cotton deteriorated 3.9 per cent, compared with the September report. The October condition is 59.8, compared with 63.7 in September. This compares with a crop percentage of 73.5 last year, 62.1 per cent in 1913; 68.8 in 1912, and 69.3 in 1911. This condition of the crop is the lowest in five years, but it is said the decline for this season of the year is not high, since in 1913 cotton declined 5 points in October; in 1909, 3.9 points, and in 1906, 3.6 points.

The unusually low condition of cotton is the result of a season of unfavorable and erratic weather, which must be judged by the weather conditions throughout the belt and not by the cotton growing October weather which we have had in tidal North Carolina, where cotton and other crops are still growing on the eve of the first of November. While Eastern North Carolina has been frostless and regular summer weather has prevailed, the conditions have been bad in the Southwest, where the bulk of the cotton crop is grown.

Around Wilmington cotton is producing a top crop, blooms appearing towards the middle and the latter part of September having produced a crop. It is marvelous that a top crop should be produced so late in the season, but it is only in this part of North Carolina where such has been the case. Killing frosts occurred weeks ago in portions of North Carolina, but as we write this, the day in Wilmington is like that of a glorious summer. In North Carolina the October condition of cotton is 71.4—the highest of all the South Atlantic states. Tennessee leads the belt with a condition of 72.9 and Missouri comes next with 71.7. With reference to the whole belt, however, the Journal of Commerce says:

"Top crop prospects are very poor, the weevil having destroyed large portions of it. Frosts have also injured considerable cotton in many sections, but there are large areas not affected and in these a late frost would add to yield. Heavy rains have injured the quality of fiber to some extent, but on the whole the crop has only suffered the usual deterioration for this time of year. Very little cotton has been held, being generally sold as fast as gathered. Picking is well advanced, except Oklahoma, where cotton is extremely late."

The Journal of Commerce does not estimate on the total crop, but its Southern correspondents were requested to send in their estimates. Replies from 112 estimate 9,500,000 to 10,000,000 bales; 272 replies, ten to ten and a half million bales; 233 replies ten and a half to eleven million bales; 233 replies eleven to eleven and a half million bales; 113 replies, eleven and a half to twelve million bales; 55 replies, twelve and a half million to thirteen million bales. The average of these estimates would indicate a crop of about 11,085,000 bales. The crop is about three-fourths picked and ginned.

INVESTIGATION VS. VENTILATION

With calamity howling gone by the board and the tariff issue a doubtful one at its best while a war is still cutting off our imports, the Republicans seem to be hard up for something with which to make a few people sore on the Wilson administration. They would like the best in the world to get something on the President, and are even disposed to pick at hime about his policy in dealing with the Mexican situation. They would like to make something out of "Watchful Waiting," hence this slur from the staid old Winston Republican:

"It is hinted that Wilson's recognition of Carranza is due to a belief that an inquiry by Congress will thereby be unavoided. Vain hope. We do not mean that pressure from the White House may be successfully applied to prevent the passage of a resolution of inquiry. But the right of speech has not yet been cut off at the capital, and the whole wretched Mexican business will be ventilated."

The motive of the President in recognizing Carranza is thus called in question and the Republican does not even repudiate the hint that his motive was to avoid an investigation. "Vain hope," says the Republican, if he even expects to do so, but we suspect that the President does not even expect to have to try to avoid inquiry into his dealings with Mexico. The Republican gives warning, however, that "the right of free speech has not yet been cut off at the capital and the whole wretched Mexican business will be ventilated."

The Republican said something when it articulated "ventilated." That is precisely what the Republicans prefer. They love "free speech," not for itself, but for the purpose of ventilating something. They would not dare to call for a congressional investigation, for they can make the most capital by ventilating their opinion about their government's dealings with the Mexican revolution. The President has "dealt" with the Mexican question, but doubtless the Republicans think he should have "handled" it, if they are quite sure this Republic has any right to interfere in the purely internal affairs of any other country.

We would rather see the President's policy and his recognition of Carranza investigated than to see it "ventilated." Therefore, we move to investigate, so the Republicans can have all the "free speech" they want. They can be treed better by an investigation, for it would not take very long compared with the time that it would take for ventilation. The Democrats also would ventilate as well as the Republicans. Both sides would simply ventilate mere opinions as to whether the President's policy was a wise one or that some other policy might have been wiser. What Republicans or what Democrats think about dealing with the Mexican question would not be worth a cent. It has been "dealt with" and it is up to the Republicans to advance a lot of theories that some other way would have suited them better for political reasons.

The Democrats ought to welcome the President's Mexican policy as an issue. Most sensible people will be free to admit that "watchful waiting" has a war of intervention skinned to a finish. No doubt a great many people who favored armed intervention in Mexico's own national affairs now see that the President's policy of patience has turned out better than a war for us might possibly have done for either them or us. In fact, the wisest Republican in America could not tell us what the end of intervention might have been. The President was guided by statesmanship, but if the Republicans want to make an issue of it, let them declare in their next platform for intervention. They ought to put up or shut up.

CAR SHORTAGE IS HERE.

The tremendous export business of the United States has so taxed the railroads that they are appealing to the Interstate Commerce Commission to prevent a long period of car shortage. In commercial circles in New York on Tuesday it became known that trunk line railroads entering the city of New York, with their main receiving terminals on the Jersey shore, are considering concerted action before the Interstate Commerce Commission to limit the free storage time on export freight consigned through the port of New York for shipment abroad as a result of the freight congestion on their lines. This step may be taken despite the fact that 20 days free storage time for export shipments is proving to be an absolute necessity for the shippers and consignees of large volumes of war supplies and normal export materials.

At a time when the export trade of the United States is at least 50 per cent above normal, and when the inflow of imports, temporarily lessened by the war, is again approaching the volume it has averaged during recent years, the railroads are confronted with a general shortage of equipment and with serious congestion of traffic at practically all their seaboard terminals.

Freight agents of the principal railroads in New York City, who have had many years of experience at handling the usual volume of export freight over their respective lines, say that not only is the present situation with regard to shortage of railroad facilities a serious one, but it is expected that for months to come it will be impossible for the carriers to provide shippers with adequate cars and terminal facilities.

ONE NECESSITY FOR PREPAREDNESS

One reason why we believe with President Wilson in "adequate preparedness" is that the people will have to be prepared to fight if American papers keep on referring to all other nations in terms of contempt. We don't expect the papers to quit roasting aliens, so the country ought to be prepared to defend the freedom of the press. Probably one reason why the Mexicans hate us is that they note from the American press that no Gringo loves a Greaser. At the same time there is no way of otherwise persuading them to fully appreciate the real depth of American benevolence.

American editors are not fighting mad when they take the hide off "furriners," but it surely makes all aliens mad enough to wish they could lick the hide off the "insolent American nation," as some of our alien friends uncharitably call our peace-loving and world-sympathizing country. American editors are so free to write their sentiments that our foreign brothers cannot believe we are a nation of humanitarians and love every one of our neighbors as we do ourselves. So long as they are liable to judge us by our slack-jaw press, it is safe to be prepared so they can't hurt themselves by jumping on us by mistake.

We are not going to prepare against any particular foreign nation, but only against some nation that might think an invasion would do this country good. Our only intention is to shoo off any or all invaders who might think there is something in the kindly remark that "there is such a thing as being too proud to fight."

Our real desire is to be let alone by those who are liable to dislike us and have no use for our ideals and our glib way of expressing what we think on the spur of the moment. It is not at all necessary to prepare on account of the idle rumor that the European nations are going to parcel this country out among themselves. They are too busy parcelling themselves out for us to believe that they could parcel out such a hot tamale as the "Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave."

Anyhow, we have a very large sized world power to safeguard and a doctrine or so to perpetuate. We haven't the slightest idea that it can be done with world-peace ideals that only one or two of us talk about when we want gate receipts.

The Wilmington Star says: "Just as scuppernong grapes, a peculiar North Carolina product, are superior to all others in flavor, so Norton yam potatoes cap the climax in sweet potatoes, and yet when have we seen any of the old-fashioned genuine Norton yams? It could not be peculiar by being good, for that is true of the scuppernongs which grow abundantly in the other forty-seven states.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

There is every indication now that the "Piedmont Carolina Co-operative Dinner" to be held on the evening of November 23rd will eclipse any eat and talkfest ever before held in this city. The News on yesterday published a story telling in detail of the plans for this coming feast and success seems more than assured. It was Mayor Kirkpatrick, quite a victim of the co-operation infection, who conceived the idea of bringing together representative citizens not only of the city of Charlotte but of the county and of surrounding towns and cities. There is nothing which brings folks so intimately together as a table well laden with food, and realizing this it was decided to have a monster banquet, the idea being to foster the feeling of co-operation among the leaders of the Piedmont section. That the idea has met with quick approval is shown by the fact that the banquet is now an assured fact. In addition to dozens of well known persons of this section it is planned to have a number of the leaders in National affairs on hand to deliver addresses. This banquet idea is a good one and we fell certain that it will result in quickening that spirit of co-operation so essential to the development of any section, a spirit which is already showing itself in many ways in our community and section.—Charlotte News.

Two grades in the Atlanta public schools use a geography written by Alexis Everitt Frye and published in Boston, Chicago, New York and London. The Atlanta Constitution quotes with disapproval from this "textbook," one paragraph relating to the cotton belt. It is to this effect: "The States of the northern half of the Atlantic slope make millions of yards of cotton cloth ever year. Many cotton mills are also run in some cities of the South." Illuminating information for Southern school children, isn't it? We cannot hope to have accurate Southern history taught in the Northern schools, but it has always been a puzzle to The Observer why Southern school boards persist in so many instances in making ignoramuses of themselves by providing counterfeit instruction for the youth of the South. It is the more provoking in view of the known fact that there is an abundant supply of textbooks written by Southern people who have proved themselves thoroughly capable for the task. Just why school boards will continue selecting books as if none is printed in the South, is a matter that has engaged The Observer in much thought in the past and is one item in explanation of its long-time and oft-recurring advocacy of woman on the school boards. What woman in Atlanta would have handed a school child such a misbranded article of educational food as this Frye geography? The selection of school books is a matter that has received too little thought by the governing authorities in Southern schools. The Atlanta incident is but one of many in all parts of the South. Indifference to the changing conditions in the South is partly responsible for this state of affairs. Only last week we noticed as the feature piece for the front page of a State publication, a sentiment acclaiming North Carolina as the State of "tar, pitch and turpentine." A newspaper that clings to old ideas like that is responsible to itself, alone. But the educational boards are responsible to the posterity of the South. In almost every Southern State there are county and town school boards that need to be sent to the scrap pile. And it is mainly in communities afflicted by such school boards that there is any show of opposition to the woman school commissioner.—Charlotte Observer.

A GAME OF LIFE

To the Editor of The Star:

Comparisons are mostly odious, but all good things appear better when compared with things which are bad.

Let's draw a comparison between the Union school building and the Peabody school which was destroyed by fire Thursday morning. Then let us take, say for instance, one of our modern school buildings. The Hemenway, for a mirror, and place the Union school before it, won't the reflection be unsightly? After this, place the Peabody school building before the same mirror today, and you will find the reflection ghastly—but, had the Peabody school been reflected a few days before the fire, perhaps it would have shown considerable superiority over the Union school building.

The twenty precious lives sacrificed in the Massachusetts fire should lead us to grave concern, and it should alarm us to a peril which is identical with the peril which confronted the citizens of Peabody, Mass., before the fire.

It is generally known that a site has been purchased by the Board of Education for the new county high school, this school to be used for the purpose of educating the children of the county and to relieve the congestion in the city schools. The idea being to do away with the Union school.

"Procrastination is a thief," not only of time but of other things; and in the catagory of things it is can steal, let us place the lives of our children.

Think, then, what might happen if continued delay is persisted in; it may mean that more than "twenty lives" may be stolen, or sacrificed before the Union school is dismantled. For the present Union school building affords the best opportunity for a duplication of the direful catastrophe that recently occurred in Peabody, Mass.

These lines are not bent on criticising anyone. No one could conscientiously criticise any member of the present Board of Education, as the personnel of that beard is beyond the realm of reproach. But the substance of this article is dear to the writer and should be still dearer to the mother and father, sister and brother of any child who is subjected to the hazard of attending the Union school.

Yours very truly,
A CITIZEN.

FARM AGENT TO TOUR ENTIRE NINE COUNTIES

Mr. J. P. Herring Will Arouse Interest in Corn Show

Three Large Tents Will Provide 20,000 Square Feet for Exhibits—New and Unique Method of Displaying Products.

With the Corn and Agricultural Show little more than two weeks off, plans are rapidly maturing and committees are working in earnest to make the show the success that the people are looking forward to, which means the biggest show of the kind ever held in this section. Still a bigger scheme of advertising is being developed whereby Mr. J. P. Herring, county demonstration agent, with two other active and well known truckers, will begin this week a tour of the entire nine counties embraced in the territory for which prizes are offered with a view of actually securing the exhibits and stimulating still greater interest.

With Mr. Herring and his assistants approaching the farmers in person means that actual results will be secured and will be the most practical advertising of the preliminary work. In addition to this, committees will be appointed in each township to see that exhibits are arranged and sent to Wilmington. This work will be very much stimulated by the township prizes, mention of which was made in yesterday's paper.

The order for the tents for the Corn and Agricultural Show has been placed with Messrs. H. Magee & Son, Inc., 147 Fulton street, New York. These tents are individual and the sizes are 50x250, 50x90 and 50x50, giving 20,000 square feet of floor surface for exhibits. The tents will be shipped from New York via the Clyde Line, sailing Friday, November 5th.

An experienced man furnished by Messrs. Magee & Son will accompany the tents and will supervise their erection and see that the tents are properly cared for while in Wilmington. The advance payment has been made in order to guarantee their delivery. The remainder of the rental will be paid when the tents are erected.

The manufacturers state that these tents were new this season, having been used only at the Staunton, Va., fair and two later State fairs. They state also that these tents are clean and very attractive. Mr. C. J. Becker, local agent for the Clyde Line, has promised to see that these tents are delivered on schedule time and will use every effort with the New York agent to see that this material is properly handled.

The large tent, as previously stated, will be placed on Market street, between Front and Water, and the other two tents on the new Custom House site and so arranged that they will adjoin each other, practically making one big tent out of the three. The Tent Committee, with Mr. Raymond Hunt as chairman, has plans worked out for properly lighting these tents in an attractive manner.

The plan for holding the show under canvas this year is a new and unique one for this section, although it is used extensively in the West, and has proved to be a highly successful means of displaying agricultural and industrial products to best advantage. It is believed that this will result in much greater interest being taken in the show because while situated in the central part of the business district of Wilmington, there will also be plenty of space. The fairs held in the past two years have been badly crippled because of a lack of space in which to display the exhibits properly.

BIG SALE THIS WEEK.

Messrs. Southerland & Weaver Announce Event Extraordinary.

Messrs. Southerland & Weaver, progressive and up-todate clothiers and gents' furnishers, No. 121 Princess street, announce for Thursday morning of this week the first public sale they have ever conducted in their six years' business experience, and judging from the preparations that are being made, it's going to be an event out of the ordinary. The entire stock of this firm—and this stock is nothing, if not up-to-date—has been placed in the hands of the American Special Sales & Salvage Co., of Washington, D. C., and Mr. J. B. Saddin, of this concern, has been in Wilmington a week or ten days, arranging everything for the opening Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Elsewhere in today's paper, a page advertisement quotes only a few of the low prices that will obtain during this period of sensational bargain-giving. The store will be closed Tuesday and Wednesday while the stock is being marked down, but promptly Thursday morning, the doors will be thrown wide and discriminating buyers are invited to come early and secure the best selections of brand new stock and all the new and most novel specialties in the clothing and furnishing business. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

ODD FELLOWS AT WHITEVILLE.

Supervisor L. W. Moore Says He Expects Big Attendance.

Supervisor L. W. Moore, of this city, said yesterday that he was expecting a large attendance at the district convention of Odd Fellows to be held with Columbus Lodge, No. 27, Whiteville, on November 11th, afternoon and evening. A strong programme is being prepared and invitations have been sent to several Grand Lodge officers, and it is expected some of them will be there.

Mr. Moore is supervisor of this district, which is the fifth. The officers of the convention are as follows: President, T. G. Landen, Wilmington; vice president, J. A. Tuder, Boardman; secretary, M. C. Guthrie, Southport; treasurer, Dr. Ira W. Brown, Burgaw; sentinel, S. A. Matthews, Wilmington.

The following are the lodges in the district: Burgaw, No. 243; Columbus, No. 27, Vineland; Boardman, No. 378; Atlantic, No. 43, Southport; Cape Fear, No. 2; Orion, No. 67; Wilmington, No. 139; Hanover, No. 146, all four of Wilmington; Lumberton, No. 245; Goodwill, No. 192, Wallace; Warsaw, No. 203; Clinton, No. 124.

Fine Persimmon From Wrightsboro.

Mr. Jesse Joyner, of Wrightsboro, was in the city yesterday with a Japanese persimmon weighing 14 ounces and near nine inches in circumference. This persimmon was grown on Mr. Joyner's farm at Wrightsboro, where he has a number of trees bearing such fruit. This is the second year these trees have borne, and it is much better this year than last. The fruit is seedless and has a most delightful taste.

THANKS COMRADES FOR HONOR

Major General James I. Metts Issues Letter to North Carolina Confederate Veterans.

Expressing his deep appreciation for the honor of being elected as commander of the North Carolina Division, United Confederate Veterans, and asking for the earnest co-operation of his comrades during his administration, Major General James I. Metts, of Wilmington, has issued an open letter to the veterans of the State. Following is a copy of the letter:

"Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 28, 1915.

"To the North Carolina Division, United Confederate Veterans, and All Other Veterans in the State:

"In assuming command of that time-honored division of United Confederate Veterans of the grand old State of North Carolina to which office you delegates have recently elected me, I wish first of all to express to you, my comrades, the deep appreciation which I feel of the signal honor which has been conferred upon me, of which I am truly conscious.

"I assure you that the prime object of my term of office will be to perfect such an organization as will bring peace, happiness and prosperity to every follower of the immortal Lee, Johnson and Jackson in such abundance as can be measured only by enriching of our efforts by the Divine Leader of all men.

"In doing this it will always be my pleasure to council with and receive the aid of all wearers of the Grey, whose services for their dear old Southland, from Bethel to Appomatox stands today unspotted from the world.

"My first effort in your behalf will be to surround myself with such comrades as my staff, as will consolidate into a regular turbine engine, that we may distribute power for the upbuilding of your camps, that they may become a very asset of happiness in your declining years.

"By doing this we can then and then only develop the greatest good to the greatest number, so I ask, yes, beg each and every one of you who having stood the test that tried men's souls, to organize camps in every county in the State, where there are none and to affiliate with your nearest camp of United Confederate Veterans that we may put shoulder to shoulder in comforting and caring for our comrades, for we are our brothers' keepers.

"We beg for your kind indulgence for any errors of our administration and ask that you attribute them to the frailty of this human nature of ours for they will be the faults of the head and not of the heart.

"I trust that you will be the beneficiaries of the crowning success which was so abundantly bestowed on my worthy predecessor.

"In conclusion. I must again ask you to accept my thanks for the glorious privilege you have given me to serve you and may I here ask for a small thought during your prayers to the Divine Leader, that he may further the success of our efforts and thoroughly imbue us with the knowledge that we should ever 'love our neighbors as ourselves' and 'it is more blessed to give than to receive'."

"JAMES I. METTS,
"Major General, U. C. V."

MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS

New Hanover Teachers Optimistic Over Their Outlook.

New Hanover teachers are optimistic over the prospects for wiping illiteracy out of the county and that fact was evidenced at their monthly meeting held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, in the Hemenway school building. Sixty-eight teachers have already volunteered their services for instruction in the moonlight schools which begin next Tuesday night.

Prof. Washington Catlett, county superintendent of public instruction, states that there are 59 illiterates in the rural districts of New Hanover county. They are distributed as follows: Delgado, 34; Castle Haynes, 10; Scott's Hill, 2; Wrightsville, 4; Winter Park, 2; Masonboro, 5, and Carolina Beach 2.

Talks were made yesterday by several who are well-wishers of the noble movement. Mr. F. A. Lord represented the Junior Order; Mrs. M. J. Dauer represented Sorosis and promised that members of this organization would act as teachers, if needed; Miss Eliza Meares represented the Colonial Dames, who are also interested in the work.

Not more than two students will be assigned to any teacher, and those requiring any special lines, such as penmanship, arithmetic, etc., will be given the opportunity of taking instruction under experts in teaching these lines. Illiteracy has been excused in the past on account of the lack of chance, but this can be pleaded no more in North Carolina, and least of all in New Hanover county.

PAROLED TO ROAD SUPT.

Recorder Had Light Docket—Only Two Cases Introduced.

The Recorder had but little to do yesterday, but incidentally disposed of W. M. Nixon, a colored boy, for a while at least. The police and county officers were not able yesterday to give Nixon a very good character, as they say he has a mania for stealing and especially for taking bicycles that don't belong to him. He was convicted in two different cases of stealing bicycles, but in that he is an orphan boy and under 16 years of age, the Recorder decided to parole him to the superintendent of the county farm, with right of moderation reserved which if not used will allow the boy to stay there six months.

Mingo Benjamin, colored, paid costs for assaulting a female.

TONIGHT IS HALLOWE'EN

Festival Day Falls on Sunday This Year and Consequently Most of Celebrating is Over.

In spite of the fact that Hallowe'en parties have been numerous in Wilmington and vicinity for the last several days, Hallowe'en actually comes tonight. The celebration in Wilmington of this ancient fastival has perhaps been more general this year than ever before, but it must be said that the ancient jokes of lifting gates from their hinges and other such youthful pranks have about gone out of fashion and instead good natured spooks have prowled the streets at night with no more evil intent in view that that of having a good time in a genteel way.

In view of the quite general observance of the ancient festival, a few facts from the encyclopedias will be of interest. The name is given because the day is the eve of Hallowe'en or All Saint's day, Novmber 1. The two chief characteristics of ancient Hallowe'en were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that of all nights in the year, this is the one during which ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad.

On or about the first of November the Druids held their great autumn festival and lighted fires in honor of the sun-god in thanksgiving for the harvest. It was also a Druidic belief that on the eve of this festival, Saman lord of death, called together the wicked souls that within the past twelve months had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals.

On the Druidic ceremonies according to the teachings of the encyclopedia, were grafted some of the characteristics of the Roman festival in honor of Pomona held about the first of November, in which nuts and apples, as representing the winter store of fruits, played an important part. Thus the roasting of nuts and the sports known as "apple ducking"—attempting to seize with the teeth an apple floating in a tub of water—were once the universal occupation of the young folk of medieval England on the 31st of October. The custom of lighting Hallowe'en fires survived until recent years in the highlands of Scotland and Wales.

In the dying embers it was usual to place as many small stones as there were persons around, and next morning a search was made. If any of the pebbles were displaced it was regarded as certain that the person would die within the twelve months.

FIRE AT FRONT AND CASTLE.

The store building on the southeast corner of Front and Castle streets was burned practically to the ground shortly after midnight this morning. Fire was discovered about midnight and the fire department was called from Box No. 45, and they hurried to the scene, but the building being frame, the fire had made good headway before they reached the scene.

Quite a lot of the stock of goods was saved, and it was all pretty well covered by insurance. The cause of the fire was an explosion of gas in a pressing club in the rear.

The building was owned by Mr. R. E. L. Cook, and the store was run by Mr. C. E. Canady. In the rear of the building a negro ran a pressing club.

The loss amounted to about $500.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS HAVE BIG HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Large Number of Visitors Entertained With Unusual Features.

From the time they entered the building by the "shoot the chute" route until the final close of the programme of the evening, the several hundred visitors at the entertainment given at the Y. M. C. A. last night by the members of the Boy's division were treated to more surprises than they had experienced in some time. It was an evening when spooks and ghostly figures held sway from the time Chief Spook Ben Thees greeted the guests until the the visit was made to the "morgue," where skeletons were snugly placed in beds to scare the unwary.

Passing from the front to the billiard room, the visitors were shown across the river Styx to the wishing spring, which was arranged with most realistic effect, and thence to the locker room in the subterranean caverns, where the imps ruled in darkness. The passage then led through the boys' lobby where witches watched beside big cauldrons, dealing out fortunes to those passing by. This room was elaborately decorated. On the third floor three of the rooms were used, the first being the big front room which was given over to games while in the second fortune tellers told the futures of those who visited them. The third was the "morgue."

The big event of the evening was the attack made on the Boy Scouts by the Indian tribe. This took place in the gymnasium which had been especially arranged for the occasion. The Indians were hidden behind the bushes and rushed forth upon the boys with a very realistic imitation of the old days when Indians roamed the forests. The boys were defeated by the Indians, who engaged in a war dance around a big bonfire.

The evening closed with the serving of refreshments. The music was by the High School orchestra which was one of the most enjoyable features. The entertainment was arranged by a committee of 18 boys and they were assisted most capably by Mrs. Strickland and Miss Fleming, who told fortunes, and Misses Styron and Tucker, who took the part of witches. The decorations were arranged by Mrs. Robert Tucker and Misses Styron and Fleming.

A PLEASING MUSICAL COMEDY

"Bringing Up Father" a Beauty Feast With Catchy Airs.

The stage scenery together with the girls in the play last night at the Academy made "Bringing Up Father," Gus Hill's musical farce comedy, taken from the cartoon drawings of George McManus, a real feast of beauty. Such a collection of beautiful women is rarely ever seen on the stage. With the exception that the chorus seemed in need of several good voices, the music was well up to the standard.

Characters were introduced to represent all the figures that are found in the book written by Messrs. Thomas F. Swift and J. F. Mulgrew. The little plot was about as human as the cartoons that are as interesting to the children as they are to the older people. It had to do with the family that had had energy enough to accumulate a fortune, but not culture enough to enjoy it, and were as a consequence being picked out as prey by the folks already established as society and made fun of by all.

The musical numbers were cleverly introduced and many of them had catchy airs. Those sung by the leading characters were far superior to the choruses. The greatest hit was "I Want You," it having the distinction of being enthusiastically encored. Other numbers that were striking and catchy were "We Want a Mighty Navy," "If We Can't Be Sweethearts, We'll Be the Same Old Friends," "Tango Moon" and "When I Leave the World Behind."

It was hard to pick the most deliciously human character of the leading cast, for they all were stars. Johnny Jess, is the man it required several months to select to represent Jiggs Mahoney, father; Polly Holmes, represented Mrs. Jiggs Mahoney, mother, in real grand style. Billy McGee, from "The Movies," posing as a Spanish count, just about to win a vast fortune, was well delineated by Clyde Kerr. The best singer on the cast was Edward Smith, as Tom Hamilton, a real American.

All in all, it was a good attraction and the Wilmington theatregoers are in hopes that the next company of its type will bring as catchy airs and have as distinctive a manner of introduction.

POLICE ACTIVE YESTERDAY.

Several Robberies Reported in North End of Town—Few Arrests.

The police were kept rather busy yesterday rounding up and trailing up the petty crimes that are going on in the city. There were several robberies and housebreakings reported and three county farm escaped convicts were taken in.

Mr. Harrelson, who lives at No. 116 Grace street, reported that someone entered his home Friday night and stole $4 in cash, a pistol and a pair of trousers. Plainclothesman D. W. Coleman made an investigation, but failed to find any clues to the robber.

Mr. E. S. Bannerman reported that some one entered his home, No. 109 Walnut street, at 4 o'clock Saturday morning, but that nothing was missed. Mr. William E. Cromwell, collector for The Morning Star, reported that a man was standing on his back porch when he awoke yesterday morning, but when he began to stir the man skipped away and he failed to find which way he went.

Miss Bryant, who lives at No. 312 North Front street, reports that a thief entered her kitchen, breaking a glass window to get in, but that nothing was missed.

Joe Wood and James Rising, both white boys at the county farm, who had escaped some time ago, were arrested by Bicycle Policeman A. L. Long. They will have hearings before Recorder Emple Monday morning. Policeman Long also arrested John Howard, a colored boy, who had escaped from the farm and he will get a trial at the same time. Bertha Goody, colored, was arrested last night on Nixon street for being boisterous.

Report was made to the police that Frank Jackson, colored, shot Leslie Collins, colored, in an affray in Brooklyn Friday. Collins was taken to the James Walker Memorial Hospital where his flesh wound in the body was dressed and he was able to leave his own accord yesterday. Jackson has not been apprehended.

Death of Mrs. W. D. Harrell.

She was 36 years old and had been ill but a short time. The funeral will be held from the residence at Delgado tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and the interment will be in Bellevue cemetery.

STRONG CAST SELECTED TO GIVE SACRED CANTATA

Under the auspices of the Westminster Christian Endeavor Society, Bradbury's delightful cantata, "Esther," will be given for a second time at the Memorial hall, St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, next Friday night by a cast of local musicians with Mr. Bert Jones in charge.

The final rehearsals will be held this week and the production promises to be an even greater success this year than it was last year. Several changes in the cast of characters have been made. Mr. R. C. McCarl will have charge of the staging and under his capable guidance, the scenic changes will be more smooth and effective.

The dramatic side of the entertainment will be a noticevable feature, some of the cast having shown histrionic ability, notably Mr. Harris, who as King is strong and impressive, and Mr. O'Keefe as Haman. Miss Ruby Duncan, who takes the part of Queen this year as she did last year, will be given a cordial reception and her rendering of the beautiful airs in the cantata will please the audience. Miss Fleet will take the difficult part of Zeresh and Wilmington music lovers will hear her rich contralto voice with much pleasure. The other parts are in capable hands. The full cast of characters will be announced this week.

The costumes have been made by a committee of ladies under the direction of Miss Mary Belle King, and will be greatly admired. Their rich coloring will charm the most fastidious and will be a great improvement over those last year.

Tickets are now on sale and may be secured from any member of the society or cantata.

HENNIGAR-BARKER WEDDING EVENT OF MUCH INTEREST.

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 30.—A wedding characterized by unusual beauty and impressiveness was solemnized at the First Baptist church here on last Thursday evening at 7 o'clock when Miss Bonnie Barker became the bride of Dr. Gordon Ross Hennigar, Rev. C. L. Greaves, the bride's pastor, being the officiating clergyman.

The sacred edifice was transformed into a sylvan bower and an exquisite bridal setting was effected with cut flowers and greens, the semi-circular rostrum being banked with ferns and palms, interspersed with white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Previous to the arrival of the bridal party a musical programme was given, Miss Lina Gough at the organ and Miss Christine Gower at the piano. The prelude, Massenet's "Elegy", an organ and violin duet, by Miss Gough and Mr. Woodberry Lennon, was splendidly rendered. Miss Mildred McIntyre, of the music faculty of Meredith College, sang very sweetly "My Heart at Thy Dear Voice," after which the bridal chorus from the Rose Maid was sung, all of the voices being in splendid accord. Miss Iva Pearson, also a gifted vocalist, sang beautifully and impressively "Love's Coronation," with piano and organ accompaniment.

When the deep tones of the organ vibrated Mendelssohn's wedding march the bridal party entered in the following order: Misses Anna Lawrence and Annie Grace Williams, Rosa Lee Caldwell and Mary Mack Biggs, ribbon girls, daintily clad in white with yellow ribbons, advanced down the aisles, two in each aisle, and took their places at the altar, followed by the ushers, who were Messrs. Elwood Whaley, Rorey High, H. J. Singleton and E. J. Barker. The two bridesmaids, Misses Lillie and Bertha Barker, cousins of the bride, wearing white imported gowns with plaitings of yellow tulle, carrying yellow chrysanthemums, entered singly with their attending groomsmen, Dr. Russell Beam and Mr. S. K. Nash, after whom came Mrs. Ernest Jerome Barker, of Rowland, N. C., sister-in-law of the bride, who acted as matron of honor. She was attired in a creation of lavender charmeuse en train and her flowers were white chrysanthemums. Miss Eva Mace, the maid of honor, entered next, becomingly gowned in soft yellow pussy willow taffeta with tulle drapery and carried an armful of yellow chrysanthemums, and following her was little Miss Frances McNeill, dainty and fairy-like in a white lace frock, who bore the ring in the heart of a huge white chrysanthemum, while down the opposite aisle handsome little Charlie Crabtree, in his costume of white velvet, entered bearing two lighted candles, one of which was extinguished as the couple were made one. The little flower maidens, wearing dainty little gowns of white lace and yellow sashes, were pictures of loveliness as they slowly marched down the aisle scattering rose petals before the bride. These were little Misses Mary Lawrence and Mary Ruth Greaves.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Mr. J. A. Barker, who gave her in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. F. D. Williams, of Fayetteville, N. C. She was radiantly beautiful in her semi-princess gown of duchess satin, hand embroidered with trimmings of real lace and pearls. Her stately court train fell in soft folds from the shoulders, and her misty tulle veil which enveloped her figure was caught to her hair with a chaplet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies, the shower extending almost to the floor. Her only ornament was a brooch of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom. During the ceremony Miss Gough played softly a Nocturne by Chopin, and at the conclusion of the prayer the choir sang very softly, unaccompanied, "Oh, Perfect Love." Tannhauser's march was used for the recessional.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left by auto for Fayetteville where they took the Northbound train for Baltimore, New York and other points, after which they will visit the groom's parents at Chester, Nova Scotia, for several weeks, before going to Halifax, Nova Scotia, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Hennigar is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander Barker, and has lived in Lumberton most of her life. By her vivacious manner and pleasing personality she has won many friends who were loath to see her leave to make her home elsewhere. Dr. Hennigar is a dental surgeon of much ability, and has made a number of friends during his visits to Lumberton.

SUPREME COURT HEARS BADLY TANGLED CASE

Arguments From 10th and 11th Districts Completed.

Appeal in Re Will of Jane Rawlins One of Unusual and Extraordinary Features—Weekly Newspapers as Text Books.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 30.—The Supreme Court concluded today the hearing of arguments in the 39 appeals from the Tenth and Eleventh judicial districts that have held the attention of the court all the week. The appeal in re will of Jane S. Rawlins, from Rockingham county, was one in which counsel for the caveators assert that the facts from their standpoint present a "tangled skein of machinations that might well excite the envy of a Machiavelli". The appeal is from Judge M. H. Justice in which the findings were against the will in question.

Jane Rawlins was a Scotch woman who came to this country to Ohio about 1860 with her parents, William Bothwell and wife, and in 1873 she came to Ruffin, Rockingham county, to marry Andrew Spaulding, whom she had known in the old country. She was uneducated, not able even to sign her name. She was left a widow and, the caveators allege, came under the influence of J. D. Huffines, real estate dealer of Reidsville, who, they allege, traded extensively in her properties, and at her death it was found that she left a will leaving each of her rightful heirs, the caveators, one dollar each and all the remainder of her property to Huffines, as the will expressed it: "In consideration of his kindness to me in looking after my interests and caring for my business in the last days of my life."

Counsel for the caveators, R. H. Scott and King & Kimball, pleaded to the court in their brief filed in the case, that "for unexampled romance, pathos and tragedy, the court is respectfully commended to a careful perusal of the evidence set out in the record, and then up to the climax of all these, embodied in the language of the will itself." The validity of the will is challenged on the grounds of incapacity of the testator to make the will and that its making was procured by fraud and undue influence on the part of Huffines.

The exercise of undue influence is strenuously denied by Huffines and his counsel and it was brought out in the evidence that a previous will she had made and revoked had left the same amounts to her second husband and relatives and had specified that the bulk of her property finally left to Huffines in the will under dispute be left to the Baptist church at Ruffin and to the Thomasville Orphanage. A new trial is sought principally on the ground of wrongful exclusion of evidence and improper charge to the jury by the trial judge.

Weekly Newspapers to Help.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Y. Joyner is much pleased with the readiness with which the weekly newspapers throughout the State are rallying to the support of the moonlight school campaign that is to be waged during the month of November, especially in the publication of the lessons and other matter that is to be used in the schools, the newspapers to be placed in the hands of the members of the schools in the various counties to save the expense of printing the great number of copies of the 12 lessons that would be required were it not for this co-operation of the weekly newspapers.

THREE PICKPOCKETS GIVEN TERMS ON THE WAKE ROADS

Rounded up by Raleigh Police at Big Circus Friday.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 30.—Three pickpockets were given terms on the county roads today in the municipal court as the net result of police vigilance in combating sharpers Friday when there was the double attraction for them of the Barnum & Bailey circus and the negro state fair. Authorities here give to Charlotte credit for having given pickpockets following the circus such a shake-up that the remnant of them left to come this way on their good behavior for the Raleigh stop.

John Landon, giving his home as Wilson, was given 12 months for picking $6 from the pocket of Henry Ellis; Leonard Richardson, claiming to be from Richmond, was given 12 months for taking $2 from J. J. Staten, and John Smith, giving Rocky Mount as his home, got four months for taking 50 cents from Aaron Hockley.

PARKER, N. C., MAN GETS QUICK RELIEF

W. R. Davenport Better After First Dose of Remedy.

W. R. Davenport of Parker, N. C., long suffered from a peculiar malady of the stomach. He sought treatment with but little relief. At times it seemed that he would have to give up hope.

He took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and found immediate benefit. He wrote:

"For years I have suffered from a disease which puzzled doctors. They termed it catarrh of the stomach, saying the only hope would be a change of climate, and that in all probability I would never get well. Then I heard of your remedy. One bottle gave me instant relief. It made me feel like a new man. Your full course of treatments has about cured me. Several of my friends have also been cured."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

COTTON RECEIPTS AT LUMBERTON VERY LIGHT

Farmers Are Busy and Holding for Higher Prices.

Chautauqua Draws Big Crowds—S. A. L. Schedules Change—Valuable Lot Changes Hands—Coming to Corn Show.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Oct. 30.—Cotton receipts for the week have been very light in Lumberton. As the price goes down gradually receipts fall off in proportion. So far this season there has been no complaint that the writer has heard of about prices, but many are still holding their cotton for higher figures. The week just closing has been one of ideal weather in this section, weather suited to any requirement. Few visitors from the country have been in town, the farmers taking advantage of favorable weather conditions to gather cotton and other crops.

The chautauqua which began here Thursday and closed tonight, the entertainments being held in the opera house, has been attended by large crowds at each performance, which, judging from the applause, was greatly enjoyed. One very fine lecture and Durno, the magician, were the leading features of the entertainments. This was Durno's third visit to Lumberton and he makes new friends on each visit. He stated this morning that since he had been coming here the town had been improving more than any other place he had visited.

Change of Schedules.

There will be a slight change in schedule on the Seaboard going into effect at 12:01 tonight. By this change train No. 13 from Wilmington, now due here at 6:30 p. m., will arrive at 6:25, five minutes earlier. Train No. 20 from Charlotte, due here at 10:15 p. m., will arrive at 9:55, which is 20 minutes earlier. No other trains will be changed. Under the new schedule, the three passenger trains coming in here in the evening will all arrive within a 10-minutes period, when running on time.

At a lot sale held here Wednesday, Mr. A. T. McLean purchased a lot 78 feet front on Elm street, 100 feet deep and 117.6 feet broad at the rear, for $5,525. The property is located just north of the union passenger station, lying between the railroad right-of-way and First street. Back in the days of turpentine in this section this lot was occupied by a large turpentine distillery owned by the late Mr. Berry Godwin, who at that time owned the whole square and used it exclusively for his distillery.

Mr. S. F. Birthright, after spending several days here with relatives and friends, left this morning for his home in Washington City. Mr. Birthright is an old Lumberton boy and one that his friends are justly proud of. He said yesterday that he helped haul the brick to erect the Thompson hotel building back in the latter 80's. For this work he received 75 cents per day. In 1893, under the Cleveland administration, Mr. Birthright received a government appointment in Washington, which he still retains, having been advanced from time to time.

Corn and Agricultural Show.

The next fair attraction for the people of this section will be the "Corn and Agricultural Show" to be held in Wilmington November 16, 17, 18 and 19. For a visit to Wilmington a better time cannot be selected than the fall season. It is worth the cost of the trip to go to the sound and enjoy a good oyster roast, to say nothing of the many pleasures to be found in the city. With good weather and a reasonable railroad rate, Robeson should be well represented in Wilmington on the occasion.

While shifting cars in the local yard here on Thursday a car being handled by the R. & C. freight crew got beyond control and ran into a coal car containing 55 tons of coal, hitting it with such force that it was knocked several feet off the end of the siding where it was standing, the truck going on the ground being buried in the earth up to the bottom of the car. At this writing the car has not been rerailed.

It Pays to Advertise.

The fact that it pays to advertise was never more clearly demonstrated than last Saturday, at which time Messrs. R. D. Caldwell & Son put on a big bargain sale. They had used the newspapers, billboards, handbills, etc., and as a result the regular clerks, with additional help, were rushed from opening until closing hour. The Messrs. Caldwell believe in printers' ink.

A new business known as the "Lumberton Bargain House" is to be opened here next week in the store for several years occupied by Miss Josephine Breece in the millinery business. It has not been learned who is to conduct the new business, but it is understood that the party or parties will come from Wilmington.

The Pastime theatre began last Monday giving 5 cent matinees for all graded school pupils between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Thus giving them the benefit of a Paramount feature every Monday while school is taught on Saturday and Monday is observed as a holiday. The pictures offered to the children are as good as the world affords.

The Yadkin Power Company has a force of men erecting poles from their substation just south of town to the town electric light plant, preparatory to furnishing power to the town.

Importing High Grade Stock.

Mr. Charles Prevatt received this week a shipment of milk cows and Duroc Jersey pigs. The pigs are the finest the writer has ever seen in this section. They represent the kind of stock raised in the sections where the stock law prevails.

Large numbers of people from Lumberton and vicinity visited the Cape Fear fair at Fayetteville this week, most of the town people going over in automobiles, though the railroad did a fine business. There is no doubt of the fact that more Lumberton people visited the fair this year than ever before.

Mr. A. V. G. Wishart has opened a wholesale fruit and produce business in the Biggs building near the railroad station, and is already handling large quantities of fruits of various kinds. Mr Walter Bowden is assisting Mr. Wishart.

Mr. C.M. Fuller, the veteran livestock dealer of this section, returned this week from the West, where he went to purchase a second order of mules and horses. The shipment purchased by Mr. Fuller has arrived.

The Star theatre, which has been closed for some time, is arranging to reopen Monday under new management.

Tomorrow (Sunday) night will see the closing of the boarding house conducted by Mrs. Wishart, corner Seventh and Elm streets. For three generations this has been a boarding house and more meals have been served there than in any other house now standing in Lumberton. Mrs. Wishart is forced to close on account of failing health.

Among the visitors in town this week were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Smith, of Maxton. The writer has known Mrs. Smith since her earliest recollection, but had not seen her for 35 years or more. She is one of the best preserved ladies for her age that the writer has ever seen. Mr. Smith is the only living brother of Mrs. Emily McNeill, of Lumberton, they being the only two surviving members of one of the oldest families in this section. Mr. Smith is 75 years old.

UNDERWRITING PEACE OF THE NATION.

By the Conference Committee of National Preparedness.

New York, Oct. 30.—To President Wilson's plans for increasing the Army and the Navy there will be given the support of nine representative organizations which some time ago assumed the task of underwriting the peace of the nation. These organizations, having an aggregate membership of several hundred thousands, include some of the most prominent men of the country, who have foreseen that the preservation of peace demands positive action throughout the United States as well as at Washington.

It is self-evident that the continuance of every man's job, and the protection of his home is dependent upon the maintenance of national progress, and to that progress the upholding of certain ideals are necessary. Our present prosperity, and our long peace with the other great nations of the world, have been largely built upon the firm foundation of these principles.

To make peace at any price is to drop these principles gradually and literally invite the other peoples to wrest from us not only the products of our industry and right living but the rich heritage which was preserved by our forefathers at the price of their lives and handed down to us as a sacred thing.

The underwriters of peace are not in favor of peace at any price because they foresee that such a policy while securing temporary peace for today is absolutely certain to involve the nation in greater difficulties tomorrow. The father who will weakly submit to indignity today to save himself foredooms his sons and his daughters to the horrors of war.

Though this movement received its present momentum from the revelations of the European war, the underwriting of peace was nevertheless begun about 14 years ago when "The Society to Insure the United States Against the Possibility of Being Invaded," was formed. This society is now the powerful Navy League, the oldest of the nine organizations zealously laboring to repair the weaknesses of the United States, which are the result of years of neglect and indifference.

The Navy League makes the public acquainted with the necessities of the nation in maritime matters, and endeavors to have Congress listen to the recommendations of the General Board of the Navy and the General Staff of the Army, the government's own experts who are trained to know what the nation needs for its defense.

It is hard to arouse the interest of men and women who never saw a battleship, and who may never see one, to know that their continued peace and prosperity is in large measure dependent upon the nation maintaining a fleet on a par with other great nations, consequently an important part of the league's work is the education of citizens living far inland. Contrary to popular belief, men in the navy are very much in the minority in the Navy League, while patriotic business men are in the majority of its membership. Last July a Women's Section of the League was formed with a membership of 3,000 and the section will probably have 100,000 members by the time Congress meets.

Like the Navy League the Army League was founded long before the coming of the European war. It began in 1912 with the object of making the men of the nation see the necessity for a regular army, and a militia that would be of sufficient size in time of need. The Army League, as well as other patriotic organizations, advocates the passage of the "Council of National Defense Bill," a measure for which the claim is made that the efficiency of the Army would be trebled and the expenses would be reduced by half.

The National Security League is an educational institution with 10,000 members and 76 branches organized or in process of organization. It is acquainting the public with the dangers of unpreparedness and the value of achieving security by being prepared. It has committees at work presenting facts that are startling enough to command attention.

The American Legion is collecting the names of all men who have special fitness for some branch of national defense and who will respond for actual service in case of need. The Legion wants men of all professions and trades, from those who can serve as scouts to those who could build a bridge or run a locomotive. Organized last March, its membership already reaches thousands.

Among all defects in the line of national defense none is more glaring than that of aeronautics. The Army, the Navy, and the State Militia have all told, less than twenty aeroplanes. More are now being shipped out of the country every week than are owned by the nation; more men are monthly crossing the Atlantic to take service in the aviation corps of Great Britain, than are available for service in that branch of our own national defense, even if the government possessed aeroplanes and hydroplanes in sufficient numbers to meet the country's needs.

As aeroplanes now constitute first line of defense, the closing of this breach in the national line could not well wait upon the deliberate movements of Congress, so the Aero Club of America with which are affiliated 22 aero clubs, in other cities, established the National Aeroplane Fund for the purpose of supplying the Militia of the various states with aeroplanes or hydroplanes.

This movement is similar to those preceding the war in France and in Germany where by popular subscription the funds were secured by which each of the nations secured an aerial fleet.

France raised 6,114,846 francs which gave 208 aeroplanes, 62 landing stations and the services of 75 trained aviators.

Germany raised by public subscription 7,234,506 marks to form a reserve corps of aviation pilots and by the end of 1913 the reserve had increased to 600 trained men, and the efforts of the German Aerial League resulted in the passage by the Reichstag of an appropriation of $35,000,000 during the ensuing five years.

The National Aeroplane Fund which was started last June by the Aero Club of America in conjunction with prominent newspapers, has thus far raised approximately $55,000. Here in the home of flying it is believed that when the people are awakened to the actual need of the nation for aeroplanes in common with other means of defense, then the fund will rapidly assume larger proportions. It is not, however, the intention to furnish all of the aeroplanes that are needed. Congress is to be asked this winter to appropriated $17,500,000 for aeroplanes and hydroplanes for the Army, the Navy, and the State Militia. But our country is so very large, our colonial possessions are of such great strategic importance, that the popular subscription is needed no matter what Congress may do.

The Automobile Club of America, the United States Power Squadrons, the American Institute of Radio Engineers, the American societies of civil, mining, electrical, mechanical and aeronautic engineering, the American Red Cross and the Maryland League of National Defense also are societies whose members believe that it is better to be fully prepared for defense, and thus avoid war, than to be prepared only for peace and thus invite war.

In France for years before the war, the government gave a subsidy to business houses who purchased automobile trucks coming up to certain standards and who agree to keep the trucks in a condition ready for service when the army called for them. Thus the French army was able immediately to mobilize a great fleet of motor trucks of known reliability at the first call to arms. We have plenty of cars but no scheme of mobilization. The particular task of the Automobile Club of America is to work out plans for the mobilization of trucks in time of need, and also to show legislators the necessity for highways able to carry war-time traffic as well as the traffic of peace-times.

The members of the engineering societies are already working out plans for the mobilization of men competent to perform all kinds of engineering work needed in time of war.

The American Red Cross knows that if the United States is invaded there will be far less wounded to take care of if the nation is prepared than if it is unprepared; therefore as a matter of good business as well as a matter of humanity the Red Cross is participating in the underwriting.

Adequate preparation requires also an auxiliary fleet which would include an immense number of power boats for service in bays, inlets and rivers as scouts, tenders, etc. On the other side they are proving so invaluable that many power boats are fitted with machine guns and other guns. The United States power squadrons, whose members are motor boat owners able to pass suitable examinations, and who realize that the power boats can greatly aid the government in time of need, is engaged in work whose value is so distinct that the Navy Department has a representative on the governing board. It aims to procure efficient men who with their boats will be available in time of need.

To co-ordinate the work of the various societies, so that there should be no wasted effort, still another organization was formed—the conference committee on National preparedness, composed of delegates from nine of the affiliated societies mentioned. Henry A. Wise Wood, of New York, is chairman of the committee, and this committee besides acting as a clearing house for all the others is also engaged in its own earnest propaganda in behalf of preparedness, for the work of adequately preparing the nation is so great that there is not only room for all societies but there is even urgent need for the aid of every citizen who is in favor of honorable peace, and the continuation of National prosperity.

WITH THE CLUB WOMEN

Federation News of North Carolina.

By Miss Mary Moses.

The following letter has been sent to every literary club leader in the State by Miss Bettie D. Windley, chairman of Department of Literature, and will be of interest to every club woman:

"According to a suggestion from Mrs. Lingle, and in answer to requests from several club leaders, the work of the Literature Department of the N. C. Federation has been enlarged, and I wish to explain this to you, so that you may understand the committee's plan of work, and avail yourself of our help when needed. The subject literature has been divided into topics, with one member of the committee in charge of each. Each of these ladies will be glad to have you write her for programs or any information about her subject. Also during the winter we expect to have articles on the work of the department on the Woman's Club Page of the state papers, and hope you will look for them.

"I wish to call your attention especially to the subjects: Research, Pageantry and School Co-operation, as we hope through these to add new interest to the usual club work. Mrs. Metcalf thinks we should be interested in the literary societies and debates in our schools, and also in school libraries. Miss Fries suggests that all club women who are doing research work report to her, so that the federation may recognize and encourage this form of study. Mrs. Patterson says: 'As 1915 is the tercentenary of Shakespeare's death, I would suggest that the North Carolina Pageantry committee unite with the rest of the world in its fitting commemoration by giving his plays, or, if that is not practical, by a series of tableaus illustrating his life and times.'

"The suggestion which the committee wish to make are: (1) That all clubs encourage their members to send in material for the annual contest in research, poetry and short stories (These must be sent to the chairmen of the department before March 1); (2) That our North Carolina clubs try, whenever possible, to co-operate with the work of the General Federation. This year the chairman of the Literary Department recommends clubs to study the Bible as literature. Mrs. Pennybacker suggests that the women of the United States study the conditions of women of other American countries.

"Last year the chairman of literature began making a yearly record of all literary clubs which will be a valuable help to the department and of interest to you at each federation. In order to continue this record, a questionnaire is sent you.

"The chairman and members of this committee hope to serve you in every way possible."

Mrs. W. B. Waddill, chairman District Reciprocity, writes that the District Reciprocity sub-chairmen are making the arrangements for the district meetings with splendid interest.

Small Tires Made Bigger

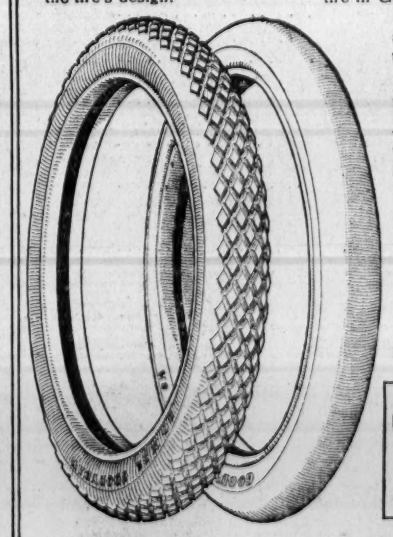
Goodyears Enlarged 20 Per Cent

Nearly half the cars running use small-size tires—sizes 30x3½ and 30x3. So this year we are offering some special extras to the million small-tire users.

We have added size, so the air capacity is increased 20 per cent. That means much added mileage.

We have added 30 per cent to the rubber in the side walls. That's where constant flexing breaks a thin-walled tire—just above the bead.

We have added endurance in a newly-found way by changing the tire's design.



Cost $317,000

These three new extras on this year's small-tire output will cost us $317,000. And this in the face of a big price reduction.

They are giving to Goodyears a vastly greater capacity than any other tires in these sizes.

Remember that Goodyears have for years held top place in Tiredom. By their super-quality they have won more users than any other tire that's built.

Even the 30x3 size is a four-ply tire in Goodyears. And our All-Weather tread on every size is made double-thick.

Now we add in this big way to the capacity. And we combat the risk of side-wall breaks by 30 per cent more rubber.

Don't take smaller tires or lighter, or tires with thinner treads.

And don't in any size accept a three-ply tire. Until others give what we give, get the Goodyear tire.

AUSTRIA WAS WARNED AGAINST WAR POLICY

Was Told Her Course Might Cause European Conflict.

Italy Pointed Out That Austria-Hungary Could Easily Have Avoided the War—Red Book on Articles of the Triple Alliance.

Washington, Oct. 30. — The text of four articles of the secret triple alliance, which for thirty years was in force among Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy, is disclosed in a Red Book issued by the Austro-Hungarian ministry of foreign affairs, through the embassy here. The Red Book deals with the negotiations between Austria-Hungary and Italy which led up to Italy's denunciation of the Triple Alliance and her declaration of war on Austria-Hungary. It is made up for the most part of letters and telegrams exchanged between the Austro-Hungarian foreign office and the embassy in Rome, with a few communications from German diplomats. Some of these communications charge Italy with having attempted to blackmail Austria-Hungary.

The Red Book discloses the fact that before the outbreak of the war Italy told Austria her course was likely to precipitate an European conflagration; and also that Austria, before taking the decisive step against Serbia, had received assurances from Germany of her support in case Russia entered the war.

The articles from the Triple Alliance are made public primarily with reference to Austria's contention that Italy was not entitled to the territorial compensation on which she insisted in return for Austria's invasion of Serbia, and surely not to "a slice of our own flesh," as this position of Austria demanded by Italy was characterized. The text of the article follows:

"Austria-Hungary and Italy, being desirous solely that the territorial status quo in the near East be maintained as much as possible, pledge themselves to exert their influence to prevent all territorial modification which may prove detrimental to one or the other of the powers signatory to this treaty. To that end they shall communicate to one another all such information as may be suitable for their mutual enlightenment, concerning their own dispositions as well as those of other powers. Should, however, the status quo in the regions of the Balkans, or of the Turkish coasts and islands in the Adriatic and Aegean seas in the course of events become impossible; and should Austria-Hungary or Italy be placed under the necessity, either by the action of a third power or otherwise, to modify that status quo by a temporary or permanent occupation on their part, such occupation shall take place only after a previous agreement has been made between the two powers, based on the principle of reciprocal compensation for all advantages, territorial or otherwise, which either of them may obtain beyond the present status quo, a compensation which shall satisfy the legitimate interests and aspirations of both parties."

In reference to Italy's declaration of neutrality early in the war, and her contention that, under the Triple Alliance, she was not obligated to assist Austria and Germany, the following extracts from the treaty were given out:

"Article III. If one or two of the high contracting parties should be attacked without direct provocation on their part, and be engaged in war with two or several great powers not signatory to this treaty, the casus foederis shall apply simultaneously to all the high contracting parties."

"Article 1: The high contracting parties mutually promise peace and friendship, and shall not enter into any alliance or engagement directed against any one of their respective states.

"They bind themselves to proceed to negotiations on such political and economic questions of a general nature as may arise; and, moreover, promise their mutual support within the scope of their own interests."

"Article IV. In the event that a great power not signatory to this treaty should menace the safety of the states of one of the high contracting parties, and that the menaced party should be forced to make war on that party, the two others bind themselves to observe toward their ally a benevolent neutrality. Each one of them in that case reserves to herself the right to participate in the war, if she should consider it appropriate to make common cause with her ally."

On July 20, 1914, eight days before Austria declared war on Serbia, Count Berchtold, then Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, telegraphed to Kajetan Merey von Kapos-Mere, then Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Rome, that the evidence in relation to the assassination of the Austrian Crown Prince, Francis Ferdinand, "as well as the constant subversive Serbian agitations carried on for many years past, are likely to compel us to assume a serious attitude in Belgrade." He said Italy should be informed that, should peaceful means fail, the Vienna cabinet "would not think of inaugurating a war of conquest or of acquiring any Serbian territory."

The Austrian ambassador telegraphed to Count von Berchtold on July 29 that the Italian position concerning territorial compensation fully confirmed his impression that Italy "does not even shrink from attempts at blackmail."

Austria informed Italy on August 2, that the "unjustified Russian mobilization against us and Germany," constituted ample justification for applying the terms of the Alliance. Italy in reply pointed out the perils and sacrifices to which war might expose her and added: "This enormous difference between the perils and sacrifices on the one hand and the advantage on the other is, in fact, the very reason why Austria-Hungary desired a war which she could easily have avoided, whereas we did all in our power to save Europe from this fearful misfortune."

On August 12 Count von Berchtold telegraphed that Austria had intended to localize the conflict with Serbia, and that Germany had supported her in that effort, adding: "We had, it is true, received the assurance from Germany that she would stand by our side if Russia should intervene. Our action against Serbia, however, was not aimed at provoking Russia."

Relations between Austria and Italy became steadily more strained Austria at length agreed to accept the principle of cession of some of her own territory to Italy. A serious hitch occurred over Italy's insistence on immediate cession of such territory. Baron von Burian's final effort to prevent the impending rupture is recorded in this telegram to Baron von Magchio, dated May 22: "In order to save our respective countries from a senseless war, I authorize you to make a final effort with Baron Sonnino and to ask whether he would be prepared to sign the agreement in conformity with the entirety of our last proposal if we met Italy still further in the question of putting the cessions into effect, without, however, conceding immediate military occupation." Italy responded, according to Baron von Macchio, that it was "too late" and a few hours later declared war on Austria.

The main points of Austria's last offer were: Austria offered the parts of the Southern Tyrol inhabited chiefly by Italians and certain territories on the west bank of the Isonzo; designation of Triest as a free city; Austria to recognize Italy's unrestricted sovereignty over Avlona and the surrounding sphere; Austria to proclaim her political disinterestedness in the future fate of Albania within the boundaries drawn by the London Conference; Italy to maintain absolute neutrality; Italy to indemnify Austria for claims arising from cession of territory by the payment of a lump sum; Germany to guarantee execution of the agreement.

The provision concerning Avlona was inserted with reference to Italy's previous occupation of that Albanian port, a step which was taken notwithstanding Austria's opposition to independent action in that territory by Italy. The Austrian diplomatic representative at Avlona in his report to his government intimated that the disorders at Avlona which were given as a reason for the Italian occupation had been brought on under peculiar cirrcumstances. He said a few shots were fired in the street by "five individuals of no particular importance," without hitting any one and that some of the disturbers of the peace, on being pursued by the police, fled to the Italian consulate. Several Italians, with their portmanteaux packed, repaired to the consulate, "where, according to his neighbors, the consul had been waiting events for some time, despite the early hour."

TO THE NEGROES OF NORTH CAROLINA

The North Carolina Teachers' Association throug hthe undersigned officers invites your attention to its work and solicits your indorsement and active co-operation. At the 33nd annual session of the Association in 1913 in Durham the Association established two commissions; namely, the Passenger Commission and the Rural School Commission.

During the last two or three years, the Passenger Commission, by agitation and otherwise, has endeavored to have certain discrminations experienced by negro passengers removed. The agitation has been helpful. Negro passengers no longer are exposed to extra danger in case of wreck on one of the principal railway systems in this State. That railway system no longer sandwiches its negro patrons in old worn-out wooden coaches between heavy steel coaches. Other railroads in the State are gradually making improvements which indicate that in time, we who pay equal fare, may hope to have equal accommodations in the protection of our lives while traveling.

At our 35th annual session in Winston it was decided to divert the energies of the association from pushing the Railroad Commission work to the Rural School Extension Department with Dr. A. M. Moore, of Durham, as the executive officer. Dr. Moore has entered very earnestly and heartily into this work. He has brought to our aid many of the best and most influential business men of the State. Through his commendable enthusiasm, intelligent and energetic plans, we have been enabled to place in the field Prof. C. H. Moore, of Greensboro, a well known educator, as State inspector of negro schools. Prof. Moore began his work the 1st of September and we are satisfied, with proper support, this movement is destined to have a far-reaching effect upon all of our schools.

We have the active support of the principal negro business men of the State. We have in our rural extension department the kind and sympathetic co-operation of our State Department of Education; Hon. J. Y. Joyner, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Prof. E. E. Sams, Supervisor of Teacher Training, and Prof. N. C. Newbold, Rural School Supervisor, are all in closest touch with the movements of the rural school extension department and are actively co-operating and directing the movements of Prof. C. H. Moore, our official school inspector. Prof. Moore advises that through the interest of the State Department of Education, he has the warm and hearty support of all of the county superintendents of public schools that he has visited. We also have the constant and active support of Prof. John D. Wray, State agent for boys' clubs, of the A. & T. College, Greensboro, N. C. Now with such a work before us we need influence and money, and this communication is for the purpose of asking. Do you not think the cause worthy of your active support? Will you not help us?

We desire you to help us by identifying yourself as a registered member of this association. It is one of the oldest of its kind in the country. It extends an invitation to every person in North Carolina who is interested in the advancement of the cause of education and the advancement of our general welfare. Prof. N. C. Newbold and Prof. E. E. Sams, although of the other race, have signified their deep interest in our educational advancement by becoming registered members. Will you not do the same? If so, kindly send your name and $1.00, annual dues for 1915, to Prof. P. W. Moore, Secretary, Elizabeth City, N. C. We are anxious to have a thousand registered members in our association. We need this membership. We want your help. Why not help us? Why delay? Why not help us now?

Our rural extension department cannot do much without proper financial support. It is unnecessary to enumerate the advantages to the State and to our race if this department is given proper support. Will you not help us? There is no question that proper support can be given if all who are able will make a small contribution to this cause. In behalf of education, in behalf of our race, in behalf of our children, we earnestly appeal to you to make a remittance of $1.00, $5.00 or $10.00, as you may be able to Dr. A. M. Moore, Secretary and Treasurer, Durham, N. C.

We further make an especial appeal to the negro teachers of North Carolina to observe the commendable spirit and earnest zeal of the white teachers in their determination to remove illiteracy from their race. Dr. E. E. Smith has called upon the negro teachers of Cumberland county to enter into the warfare against illiteracy in Cumberland county. On behalf of the State Teachers' Association, the undersigned appeal earnestly to the negro teachers throughout the State to organize themselves, and earnestly work to reduce the illiteracy in their respective counties. Prof. C. H. Moore, our school inspector, the department of education and your county superintendents, we are sure, will heartily co-operate with you. Write to Hon. J. Y. Joyner, State superintendent, for the booklet on "Adult Illiteracy in North Carolina and Plans for its Elimination." Study the plans and organize at once in this great fight. Thousands of white teachers have volunteered to give their services free to help their race! Do we not love our race as well? Can we not do as much for our people? The most expensive thing in the world is ignorance. We, our people, represent the poverty and ignorance of North Carolina more so than the other race. Surely there is greater need therefore that we should bestir ourselves.

Once more on behalf of the North Carolina Teachers' Association, we earnestly appeal to the teachers and friends of education:

First. To become registered members of our association by remitting one dollar, the annual fees for 1915, at once to Prof. P. W. Moore, Secretary, Elizabeth City, N. C.

Second. To help all you can our rural school extension department by remitting $1.00, $5.00 or $10.00 to Dr. A. M. Moore, Secretary and Treasurer, Durham, N. C.

Third. To help us reduce illiteracy in your city or county by organizing at once your teachers, and by getting them at once to enlist in the great movement against illiteracy.

We trust the loyal, energetic teachers of North Carolina will respond favorably to this appeal made to them by the North Carolina Teachers' Association. Respectfully,

JAMES E. DUDLEY,
President,
P. W. MOORE,
Secretary.

WORK OF RED CROSS SEALS.

Helped Pay the Salary of Twenty-two Visiting Nurses.

(State Board of Health.)

"The most important thing that Red Cross seals have done in the past year," said Dr. L. B. McBrayer, executive secretary of the State Red Cross Seal Commission, "is to pay in part or in full the salary of 22 whole time visiting nurses. It is impossible, said he, "to calculate the amount of good done by these nurses in alleviating the suffering of those who have been unable to employ a nurse and to provide for themselves the ordinary necessities of life. This nursing, however, has not been confined to those suffering with tuberculosis altogether, but wherever the suffering was found uncared for, there was this angel of mercy with her tender, helpful ministrations. Like the lowly Nazarene, they teach as they go—teach people how to keep from getting sick, how to keep from spreading disease to others in their family and elsewhere. In this way every person in North Carolina becomes debtor to these visiting nurses.

"The Red Cross seals have sent patients to the State Sanatorium, where they were restored to health and returned home to care for themselves and their families, becoming thus an economic asset to the State instead of a total loss with added expense. The Red Cross seals have always been the means of carrying lectures and exhibits to people who would not otherwise have had this privilege, and of carrying food to tubercular patients who have no money to spend for food.

"These are only a few examples," continued Dr. L. B. McBrayer, "of what Red Cross seals have done in our State. We feel that they are going to do far more along this line of work next year. They will soon be put on sale and should be offered for sale at every cross roads and village, at every postoffice and every school in the State."

Dr. L. B. McBrayer, whose address is Sanatorium, N. C., will be glad to furnish every interested person with all the seals they can either sell or use.

The Detroit Electric is so easy to operate that every member of the family can drive it with absolute confidence and safety. You get the maximum use of a car in the Detroit Electric because your wife and daughter never have to depend upon the hired chauffeur nor wait until you can release yourself from business to drive them about. Remember—the resale value of every automobile is determined by its months of use, more often than by its miles of use, therefore it is relatively the same whether the car has stood idle in front of your office or has been driven by the family during your business hours. Consequently the car which can be used the most each day returns the greatest value on the investment.

OPENING DAY
WILMINGTON SHOE CO.

L. W. WESSELL, Manager

203 North Front Street

NEXT TO THE MURCHISON BANK BUILDING

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3rd

WILL BE OPEN WEDNESDAY EVENING UNTIL 9:30 FOR INSPECTION ONLY.

SOUVENIRS

OPENING DAY

We will give to each Gentleman that calls opening day, Wednesday, November 3rd, a nice and useful souvenir.

To each Lady calling we will give a souvenir or a pretty flower.

All we ask is that you call and inspect our store and this souvenir will be handed you.

OUR new and modern store, located at No. 203 North Front Street, will be formally opened to the public on Wednesday, November 3rd, and you are cordially invited to call and inspect same.

This store was built especially for us and was arranged according to our wishes. All wood work, both inside and out, is finished in Mahogany. The furniture, chairs, show case, mirror and other fixtures are all finished in Mahogany to match. Instead of the old style benches we have installed the famous Streit Shakespeare Chairs, all upholstered with genuine leather. The store is heated by steam which will insure a comfortable place for shoppers during cold weather. The lighting system for windows and for inside of store are the latest in that line. The windows have large plate glass mirrors in back and on both sides, the top of both windows are trimmed with Art Valance. The fixtures for displaying shoes in windows are solid glass, made by the Crystal Fixture Co., and are ahead of anything in the city.

CASH vs CREDIT

It is a well known fact that the largest and most successful retail merchants of today do and absolutely cash business, and they find that they can give better service and also sell for less by doing so.

It is also well known that the merchant that sells on credit is compelled to charge more for the goods he sells to cover the additional cost of a book-keeper and collector and also for the risk he runs.

By doing a cash business a merchant saves the extra expense of a bookkeeper and collector and is able to give better service and sell for less.

We have always done as near a cash business as possible and from now on it is our intention to do an ABSOLUTELY CASH BUSINESS. Remember: "We sell for less because we sell for cash."

OUR LINES

Our entire line from the cheapest child's shoe to the highest price man's or ladies' was carefully selected, and we feel that we have the best to be had.

For Ladies from $6.00 and up we have the Smaltz-Goodwin, styles that are absolutely correct, sizes from 2 to 7 and widths from AA to D, for $4.00 to $5.50 we have the La-France, the most popular woman's shoe in the city, a large assortment of styles, sizes and widths.

For $4.50 and down to $1.75 we have a complete line made by Craddock-Terry Co., Lynchburg, Va., the largest shoe manufacturers in the South, the best values to be had at the price.

For Boys and Children we also have Craddock-Terry Co.'s line and have a shoe for every child's foot, regardless of size or shape.

Included in this line of Children's shoes is the famous Red Riding Hood shoe, the shoe that bends with the foot, the shoe without a tack, nailless and noiseless.

For Men from $6.00 and up we have the Nettleton, a Gentleman's shoe, a shoe for the man who wants the best, widths from AAA to E.

For $5.50 and down to $2.50 we have the Craddock-Terry Co's. line which is undoubtably the best line on the market at the price, every pair guaranteed to give service to equal the amount invested in them.

If you have never tried a pair of our shoes now is your opportunity to get next to a good thing. Phoenix and Luxite hose for Men and Women.

EIGHT STATES WILL HOLD ELECTIONS NEXT TUESDAY

Governors to be Elected in Massachusetts, Maryland, Kentucky and Mississippi—In Six States Legislatures Are to be Elected and in Five Important Constitutional Issues Are to be Decided—Woman Suffrage.

Eight states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Ohio and Mississippi, will hold elections on Tuesday, November 2nd.

In four of these states, Massachusetts, Maryland, Kentucky and Mississippi, governors are to be elected; in six states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, Kentucky and Mississippi, the state legislatures, in whole or in part, are to be elected, and in five states, New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Ohio, important constitutional issues are to be decided.

The woman suffrage question will come up for decision in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which states will furnish, in point of population, the greatest test the suffrage issue has ever had in the United States. New Jersey, the first state in the East to vote on equal suffrage, defeated the proposition at a special election given over exclusively to the suffrage question on October 19. While it has been held by some political observers that the result of the test in New Jersey would be reliably indicative of what might be expected in the three bigger neighboring states, the suffrage leaders have not been discouraged by the big majority with which the issue was defeated in New Jersey, and look forward to the bigger test with confidence.

The importance of this test is indicated by the fact that, in point of population, the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, which will vote on suffrage November 2nd, include over 20,000,000 people—a fifth of the population of the entire United States—and these 20,000,000 are practically double the population of the states in which equal suffrage has as yet been fully achieved.

New York State.

In New York State, in addition to the suffrage issue, a dominant feature of the election will be the question of adopting a new state constitution as revised by a recent state constitutional convention, presided over by Elihu Root. The new constitution, at the request of the suffrage leaders, has not been made to include the suffrage amendment, hence the constitution and the suffrage issue will be voted upon separately, neither question having anything to do directly with the fate of the other.

The features of the revised constitution are measures designed to give the cities of the state greater latitude in the management of municipal affairs, and coincidently to relieve the legislature of a vast amount of local matters; to make the governor a more responsible individual by making the numerous executive arms of the administration more directly responsible to him, to reform the judiciary so as to eliminate some of the red tape that is declared to handicap the prompt execution of the laws; and among other provisions the short ballot and the budget system. Two important articles, relating to taxation and reapportionment will be submitted to the voters, separate from the general constitution question. Two other separate amendments would provide for a $27,000,000 bond issue to complete the Barge Canal, and to permit the legislature to alter the rate of interest on certain state debts already incurred. Although the Republicans were in a majority in the convention, they are not a unit in supporting the new constitution nor are the Democrats standing solidly against it.

In personnel, the New York election calls for the choice of a full assembly of 150 members, 11 Supreme Court justices and three Congressmen, as well as county and city officials in some sections of the state.

Congressional successors are to be chosen to Joseph A. Goulden, Democrat, of the 23rd district, and Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., and Sereno E. Payne, of the 31st and 36th, respectively, who died while serving in the last Congress. The candidates are: William S. Bennett, Republican, and Elsworth J. Healy, Democrat, both of New York, in the 23rd district; Bertrand H. Snell, of Potsdam, Republican, William L. Allen, of Malone, Democrat, and Howard D. Hadley, of Plattsburg, Progressive, in the 31st district; and Norman S. Gould, of Seneca Falls, Republican-Progressive, and Louis J. Licht, of Geneva, Democrat, in the 36th.

Massachusetts.

Massachusetts, in addition to the suffrage amendment, will vote on the proposition of giving the legislature authority to impose a tax on incomes, and similar authority for the taking over of land in country districts for the purpose of establishing homesteads for those who may wish to escape from the more congested quarters of the cities.

A successor to Governor David I. Walsh, Democrat, is to be elected and the candidates, including Governor Walsh, are: Nelson B. Clark, Progressive; Samuel W. McCall, Republican; William Shaw, Prohibition; Walter S. Hutchins, Socialist, and Peter O'Rourke, Socialist-Labor.

A lieutenant governor and various other state officials together with 40 senators and 240 members of the state house of representatives, are also to be elected.

Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania will have comparatively little of general interest to its election outside of the vote on the suffrage question. No state officers are to be elected with the exception of three candidates to fill vacancies on the superior court bench. In general the only thing other than the suffrage issue to attract the voters to the polls will be county and municipal elections, although one Congressman is to be elected to fill a vacancy in the 24th district.

In Philadelphia the Republican organization has conducted a vigorous campaign to regain control of the city administration, which was wrested from it four years ago when the reform elements united with the Democratic party and elected Rudolph Blankenburg, a life-long reformer in politics, as mayor. The Republican candidate for the mayoralty this fall is Thomas B. Smith, former postmaster of Philadelphia. His chief opponent is George D. Porter, a reformer who has been director of the department of public safety in the Blankenburg administration. He resigned to make the canvas for the mayoralty under the banner of the recently formed Franklin party. The Democratic party is running its candidates on a straight party ticket.

Maryland.

Maryland will elect a governor, comptroller of the state treasury, attorney general, a full house of delegates and half of the state senate. In addition four constitutional amendments will be voted upon, and local minor officers will be chosen in the counties and Baltimore city. Candidates to succeed Governor Goldsborough, Republican, are: Ovington E. Weller, Republican; Emerson C. Harrington, Democrat, and George R. Gorsuch, Prohibitionist.

The constitutional amendments are for the referendum, a new taxation scheme, home rule for cities, and parole in criminal cases. The referendum plan is practically the same as that followed in other states, except that the Maryland proposition includes a prohibition against the use of the referendum in any local option or license legislation. If the home rule amendment carries the legislature will be relieved of a vast amount of purely local legislation, which would be vested in the city and county councils; while the taxation amendment provides for the classification of all kinds of property for the purpose of taxation.

Ohio.

There will be general interest in the election in Ohio for the reason that state-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic is an issue again this year, as it was last year, in the form of a proposed constitutional amendment which would forbid the sale or manufacture for sale of any alcoholic beverages. The "wets" have countered this proposal with petitions under the initiative and referendum law by which the people will also vote on another provision which would prevent the submission of any constitutional amendment more than twice in six years. Ohio is the only state in the Union which will vote this fall upon the liquor issue. In addition to the broader question of prohibition the so-called liquor license decentralization law, passed by the recent legislature, will be subjected to referendum. The issue concerns largely the method of selection of license commissioners.

The Sprague congressional redistricting bill, passed by the recent legislature, will also be under fire by referendum, which was petitioned by the Democratic state organization. The redistricting law as drawn would, it is declared, result in normal years in the election of 16 Republican Congressmen and possibly six Democratic Congressmen. The Democrats claim that the law which they passed when in power divided the districts about evenly as between the two parties.

All cities in Ohio will select mayors and other municipal officers at the coming election, but no state officers are to be chosen this fall.

Kentucky.

The Kentuckians will elect a governor for a four-year term, all other state officers, one-half of the state senate and an entire assembly. Democrats, Republicans and Prohibitionists have candidates for all the state offices, with Republican and Democratic contestants for every place on the ballot and the Progressives are represented by candidates for nearly all the state offices and numerous seats in the general assembly. The Socialist party has only a candidate for governor.

In the last Presidential election the Progressive party in Kentucky polled approximately 12,000 more votes than the Republicans, but the latter claim to have regained many of those who had left the ranks.

Four years ago, when Governor McCreary, Democrat, was elected, his majority was approximately 33,000.

Former Congressman A. O. Stanley, of Henderson, recently won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in a three-sided contest by the largest plurality ever accorded a candidate in Kentucky. The runner-up declared in favor of state-wide prohibition. Mr. Stanley favored continuing in effect the county unit law, or local option. This stand later was incorporated in the Democratic party platform. The platform also favors submitting to a vote of the people a constitutional amendment that would do away with the prison contract system and permitting the working of convicts on the county roads.

Edwin P. Morrow, of Somerset, is the Republican nominee. Fred J. Irexler, a Louisville man, heads the Progressive ticket.

Mississippi.

The election in Mississippi will be merely a ratification of the nominations made by the Democratic voters at the state primaries held last August, inasmuch as no other party has candidates in the field. A full set of state, county and district officers will be formally elected, as well as members of both branches of the legislature. No Congressman will be elected this year.

The present lieutenant governor, Theodore G. Bilbo, will become governor, succeeding Earl Brewer, and Lee M. Russell will be the lieutenant governor. Other candidates for state offices include Secretary of State Joseph W. Power; attorney general, Ross A. Collins; treasurer, Dr. J. P. Taylor; superintendent of education, W. H. Smith.

New Jersey.

Having disposed of the suffrage issue at the special election October 19, New Jersey has left little of general interest for the election of November 2. Voting on this day will be confined to the election of six members of the state senate and a full membership of 60 in the house. The campaign has been very quiet, no state-wide issues being involved. In some legislative districts, local option has been an issue.

The elections in the eight states that have been mentioned in the foregoing comprise all of the state elections that will be held in the United States this fall, and, as will be noted, the voting is confined entirely to states east of the Mississippi river.

BELLIGERENT SUBJECTS IN FRANCE EXPENSIVE

Supervision and Support Has Cost Government $35,000,000

Many Subjects of the Central Powers Have Been Granted Citizenship —Policy That All Shall Be Treated Justly.

(Correspondence of Associated Press.)

Paris, Oct. 10.—The supervision and support of subjects of belligerent countries interned or allowed to reside in France has given the government a vast amount of work and entailed an expense of approximately $35,000,000 to date.

"The government's policy has been to treat justly all subjects of countries at war with France residing within its territory at the outbreak of the war and to treat them as liberally as the necessary precautions for the nation's security would permit," the Associated Press is informed by Minister of the Interior Malvy, upon whom this great responsibility has devolved.

"At the beginning of hostilities," he continued, "it became necessary to intern in concentration camps 30,000 subjects of countries at war with France. That number has been reduced to 14,000 by the repatriation of a certain number by agreement between the interested powers, and by according to others residence permits that seemed to be justified by their ethnological original or other considerations.

"The Poles, Tcheques and Alsations, and the Austrians of Italian origin, natives of Trentino have benefitted from these exceptional measures. Residence permits have been issued to 1,124 Germans and 676 Austrians. Some of them are naturalized Germans whose attitude toward France has been correct in all circumstances. Some are fathers of boys serving in our armies. Others are old and tried servants in French, English or American families who are vouched for by their employers.

"There were 3,754 subjects of the Ottoman Empire residing in France before the declaration of war by Turkey. All of these have been allowed to reside here with the exception of about 50 whose antecedents made their internment necessary in the interests of the national defense. The interned civilians were sent to 63 different camps widely distributed throughout the country where they have been fed absolutely free of any cost to them and at an expense to the government of $15,000 a month. They have also received all necessary medical attendance free of charge. Some of these little colonies have even seen their numbers increased by births that have occurred under the most favorable conditions.

"All the civilian camps are under the general direction of the interior department and are directly supervised by the prefect of the department. Order is generally maintained by a commissary of police who receives the requests and complaints of the interned and supervises their correspondence. There has been little for the commissaries to do, however, for the needs of the interned have, so far as possible, been anticipated by the government.

"No one in France has had less reason to complain than these people who feel their position keenly for the most part and appreciate that we have done what we could to make that position less painful.

"The Germans, Austrians and Turks who have merited the exceptional privileges of a residence permit have by the same measure escaped the sequestration of their property. In general they have showed themselves worthy of the favor."

Germans and Austrians to whom residence permits were accorded have themselves given very little trouble it is stated at the prefecture of police. Their supervision however has been quite a burden, because of the natural suspicion in which they were held in their neighborhoods. The prefect has been flooded with denunciations sometimes signed, sometimes anonymous, partly inspired by a spirit of revenge, partly through excess of patriotic zeal. Many persons have been obliged to change their residence as a consequence but the number of residence permits that have been withdrawn is insignificant.

BIG JUMP IN EXPORT TRADE CROWDS NEW YORK HARBOR

Ships Unable to Handle Vast Stocks Awaiting Shipment to Europe — Railways Feeling Congestion — Favorable Trade Balance to be Two Billion by January— Teaching Fire Prevention in City Schools.

New York, Oct. 30. — The situation in this port, which may be taken as an accurate reflection of conditions throughout the country since half its exports and four-fifths of its imports pass through here, afford the greatest possible contrast to those of one year ago. At that time the harbor was full of idle ships, laid up by the war. Now every sort of craft that can be pressed into service, including antiquated sailing ships, are busy. They are so busy that it is not unusual for an ocean liner arriving from Europe to be unloaded and reloaded and sent on her return voyage within forty-eight hours, instead of the week that is allowed for this purpose. With all this activity, thousands of tons of cargo are accumulating on the piers awaiting shipment. Every railroad with a terminus here is clogged with freight and the growing demands of domestic trade are being held up by the tremendous volume of export business. Statistics just collected show that during September the country's exports amounted to $297,000,000 or practically $10,000,000 a day, while imports were only a little more than half this amount. If this ratio holds good to the end of the year, the favorable trade balance of the United States will reach the $2,000,000,000 mark by January.

Fire prevention exercises now form a regular feature of the assembly room exercises of all the day and night schools in the city. The plans outlined for these exercises are designed to educate the children, and through them their parents, to the cost and frequency of avoidable fires and the means to prevent them. A blackboard illustration showing the cost of fires and the number of children this sum would educate is one means of impressing this. Other blackboard comparisons show the number of fires in the different great cities of the world, showing that New York has four times as many fires as London or Berlin, and five times as many as Paris. Out of 5,449 fires in one year, 1,342 were due to carelessness in smoking, 1,491 to bonfires and rubbish fires, and 1,248 to careless use of matches, with 755 more due to children playing with matches. Instructions are given in what to do in case of a fire in the children's homes and how to prevent such an occurrence by disposing of waste paper, excelsior and other inflammable materials. The importance of having fire escapes free and unobstructed and keeping water pails handy is also dwelt upon. In addition, model fire drills are given by selected teachers and pupils, and written and oral compositions on fire prevention are prepared by the children.

One beneficial result which it is believed the European war will have upon the City of New York will be to make the unemployment problem that annually confronts the city during the winter months much less severe than in former years. This it is explained, is due to the stoppage of immigration from Europe, and to some extent to the departure of large numbers of foreign born workers from this country for service in the different belligerent armies. At the present time this situation has caused a scarcity of manual laborers, which in time is likely to assume serious proportions. American contractors have been forced to fall back upon native workers, but the prospects of securing much assistance from this source is comparatively small, as the native American will not do common labor even under the most favorable circumstances. These conditions are reflected in industrial lines where, at the present time, there is an excessive demand for young people. It is estimated that there are over 1,000 positions at wages ranging from $4 to $7 a week vacant in the hat, garment and candy trades, but comparatively few boys and girls will accept such employment, preferring office work.

The younger millionaires and bankers of the Wall Street district are organizing a club for the cultivation of indoor sports. They have leased 6,000 feet of floor space on the 18th floor of the Equitable building and have incorporated among their members at least 100 of the men in the banks of the Morgan and allied groups. The membership fee is $200 and the dues $200 a year. The quarters of the club will be on the north side of the building. There will be baths of all varieties, from the plain shower to the electric needle, and there will be gymnastic apparatus and devices for indoor golf, fly casting and rifle practice. Racquets, tennis, squash, handball, fencing, boxing and many other sports are to be provided. Nothing is to be left undone to supply an opportunity for building up the body by wholesome exercises. It is believed that Mr. Morgan will be one of the members of this new club. He habitually plays squash in an uptown club before dinner, but the new club will have a squash court superior to that of any club to which even Mr. Morgan belongs.

REVIVAL AT BURGAW CHURCH.

Negro Shot Recently is Dead—Stock Law Election Tuesday.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., Oct. 30.—Rev. J. A. Stanbury, of Clinton, has been conducting a revival at the Methodist church here during the week. He has been having large congregations, especially at the evening services, and has been preaching strong sermons. Rev. J. C. Whedbee is the pastor of the church and is assisting in the services.

Chauncey Carr, negro, who was shot several weeks ago at Rhyne Cross Roads, five miles from Burgaw, died a few days ago, as a result of the shooting. It is said that his spinal chord was severed. The negro who stands charged with the shooting is in jail here, but it is said the evidence against him is slim.

Next Monday will likely be a big day in Burgaw, as it is the last first Monday before the stock law election, this coming on next Tuesday. The free rangers have had meetings each first Monday since the stock law was passed in 1913 and next Monday will be supposed to wind it up, as the election is supposed to end the controversy.

Mr. Sam S. Scott, of the State Highway Department, has been in Pender county several days this week, sent here by the State Highway Commission, to look over the roads and see the kind of material convenient for road building. Mr. Wm. B. Pettel, of the United States Department of Labor, also has been here a few days on business connected with that department.

Geo. L. Paddison, Esq., who travels for the West Publishing Co., of St. Paul, Minn., stopped over for a short visit to his father's family. He says business is much better this season than last.

Friend of Mrs. E. L. Weston, who has been seriously ill for some time, will be glad to know that she is now rapidly recovering.

MR. GODWIN MORE ACTIVE.

Harnett Farmer Gets 390 Bushels Corn From Four Acres.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Dunn, N. C., Oct. 30.—With Little, McClammy, Nimocks and Brown in the geld, Congressman Godwin is grooming himself for the race, getting in touch with his friends and writing them some important letters.

Mr. Bud Jackson harvested on four acres 390 bushels of corn, an average of 97 1-2 bushels per acre. Two years ago he made 45 bales of cotton on 20 acres.

Mr. H. T. Winn, of Newton Grove township now, born and raised at Herrings, Sampson county, 49 years old, stands six feet and one inch inhis socks and weights 214 pounds has never taken a dose of medicine that he knows of. He is a fine specimen of health, works on the farm and can do any kind of work that comes up.

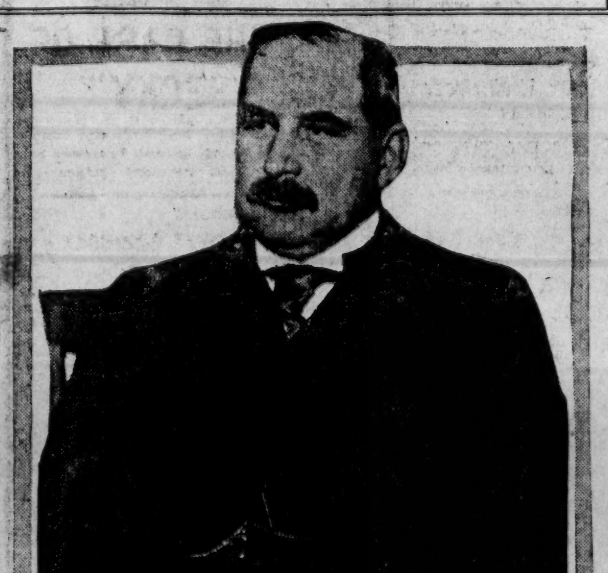
J. P. MORGAN IS IN HOSPITAL AGAIN



SEASIDE REFLECTIONS

By E. Roscoe Hall.

I.
I was strolling sad and lonely by the seashore,
While the moonbeams danced in splendor on the waves;
Thinking of the many thousands that had perished,
And the tears that fell for those in watery graves.

II.
Like a flash my wandering thoughts had covered ages,
And I saw the Indian lover, ever true,
As he wooed a dusky maiden in the moonlight,
While they sat inside a little birch canoe.

III.
Then I thought about the many, many changes,
That old Father Time had wrought in all these years;
How the roses from the youthful faces faded,
And the path of hope was filled with doubts and fears.

IV.
Now the seashore, once so desolate and barren,
Peopled only by a savage warlike race;
Is so full of lovely cottages and hotels,
That the pleasure-lovers gather at the place.

V.
Then I heard the music floating in the breezes,
Sweeter far than all the famous "Pipes of Pan,"
And I saw fantastic figures swiftly gliding,
As they tangoed in the dancing caravan.

VI.
Once again my mind returned to normal action
And I think my equilibrium was restored;
When I reached the highest height of satisfaction,
Then the car conducter shouted "All Aboard!"

INCREASE AND EFFICIENCY: TWO PERMANENT CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR IDEALS

Eph. 4:1-16.

This passage is Paul's appeal to unity and the new life of service. He urges stability, loyalty and faithfulness. He warns us against those easy sins brought on by settled temptations. He wants us to grow in grace; to grow in every part; to grow in strength and beauty of character. The grace and power of the Christian manifest Christ in him.

In the address of Dr. Clark to the last world's convention, he used as his key-words —Mobilize, Vitalize, Evangelize—which are expressed by the one American word—"Efficiency." No society can be called efficient that is not mobilizing its members, filling them with life, and spreading the glad tidings. A society that gets members, yet does not care for them, and a society that cares for its members but makes no effort to get them, or a society that is just "dead" are all inefficient.

An efficient society must increase in numbers, for its territory and field is limited. Many businesses and professions have limiting factors which prevent growth beyond a certain point, but the Christian Endeavor society has the world as a field and has no limit except the limit of ability.

Christian Endeavor should evangelize rapidly. It has a message that appeals to all, regardless of age, sex or condition of life—the rich, the poor ,the educated and the uneducated alike, can be benefited and should be enlisted in the rank.

Many institutions in their efforts at efficiency and growth are handicapped by lack of laborers. This should not be so with the Christian Endeavor, for it should have the support and assistance of every faithful member of the church, and as these now number several million, there is no reason why this great number of workers, that Dr. Clark's plea for a Million New Endeavorers may not be easily obtained. With the four million Endeavorers in North America a million new ones seems a small accomplishment for this country alone, as it makes but one new member for every fourth member. Efficiency consists of two things. One is the wise use of existing resources and capacities. The careful "efficient engineer" studies the situation as it is, cuts off all waste, adapts each activity to the end sought, and makes sure that the ends sought are the right ends. In each of us as individuals, and in each society, there is great room for this kind of improvement. We are wasting time, we are throwing away strength. If we would mark out a programme of what ought to be done now, and would now, without any dreaming or useless repining or wishing we were some one else or some other society, begin we could double the output of our work.

But efficiency consists also in increasing our resources and capacities. In each of us and in each organization there are latent and undeveloped powers. More can be done than it has been thought there is power to do. John Lawrence, who became Viceroy of India, as a young official went out once to save some of his village people from a fire. All were brought safely out except one old woman, who would not leave her home, but obstinately sat on a great bag of grain, which was all her wealth, saying that she would rather stay and burn than come out and starve. When Lawrence could not persuade her, he walked in and picked up the bag and carried it out, the old woman following. The next day he went back, and to his amazement found that he could not lift the bag from the ground. But he had lifted it. The power was there all the time, and it could be brought forth.

In all of us, and in every society, there are these buried energies. They should be brought forth. Christ, who is in his disciples, is a fountain of such boundless power, and he is also the key which can unlock it and set it free. We should trust him. We should say calmly "There is nothing that ought to be done that is impossible. Whatever my duty is, Christ's power in me is equal to."

Increase in production is an absolute certainty when based on efficiency in service. Endeavor in service is intensifying the work. In whatever sphere of life this efficiency is displayed it means larger results. If this efficiency takes the form of intelligent farming it would mean greater harvests. If it takes the form of intelligent advertising it brings larger business. If Christian Endeavor is, that it is potentially skillful. Its members are made up of the cream of the church—young people throbbing with energy, full of enthusiasm, acquainted with the latest methods of progress, and while, perhaps not having wisdom of the older members of the church, neither do they have the lethargy.

Increasing by societies or vitalizing conservative churches which now have no young people's society, is a method of increasing the total number which counts up very fast. It must be borne in mind that lac kof these societies is due to ignorance, in most cases—ignorance of the advantages of the church, ignorance to the needs of the young people, ignorance to the proper manner of organizing. They should be taught. Every society should hold itself a living commendation of what Christian Endeavor can do for the church.

Mobilizing or working together is one of the finest necessities. It is unification, the getting the forces together so that no effort will be lost through misunderstanding. This should be one of the first steps. Every society that begins an efficiency campaign should start by having a mobilization meeting in which forces should be assembled and a general understanding obtained. Every society in the State of North Carolina should be in an efficiency and increase campaign. Every society in North Carolina has a definite part in the ten standards as outlined by Dr. Clark. Every individual Christian must take a new step in consecration. The task is a large one—but not too large if we but say, sincerely, earnestly, believingly, "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I will."

The True Philosopher.

The true philosopher makes a considerable to do over his love of and his search for knowledge. But if he is a truly wise philosopher and if he values his reputation he will stop safely short of ever acquiring exact information. Exact information is fatal to the philosophical temperament. A philosopher is a man who can make solemn and profound remarks about any matter whatsoever without knowing anything about it. As soon as he learns something about a matter he is to that extent excluded from philosophizing about it. He is no longer a pure philosopher; he is now part scientist. This explains why there are so few prominent and prosperous philosophers these days. With the vast development of our means of communication, the multiplication of books and newspapers and the obtrusiveness of reformers, it is almost impossible to get through the world without picking up a great deal of correct information, and consequently it is well nigh impossible to be a philosopher.—Life.

That "Dead Man's Chest."

The rendering of the first line of Stevenson's immortal song as "Fifteen men on a dead man's chest" spoils the significance of the phrase, writes a correspondent. License is permitted to poets, but no fifteen men could ever find room on the chest of any man, dead or alive, unless they were Lilliputians on the top of a Gulliver. The actual phrase is "the Dead Man's Chest," which is the name of one of the Virgin islands, lying to the east of Porto Rico. It is said that when Columbus discovered the group he named them after St. Ursula and some of her mythical virgins, but the English buccaneers rechristened them in homelier terms, such as "Dutchman's Cap," "Broken Jerusalem," "Rum island" and "The Dead Man's Chest." Kingsley refers to the matter in the first volume of "At Last," and Stevenson acknowledged, in his account of "Treasure Island," that he had lifted the phrase from the older novelist's pages. —Manchester Guardian.

How to Sharpen Your Knife.

In the Woman's Home Companion a contributor gives boys the following advice as to how to keep their knives sharpened:

"Few boys who undertake to sharpen a knife have any great difficulty in getting a sufficiently keen edge. It is in keeping this edge that the trouble arises. This is due to holding the knife blade too flat when sharpening.

"By holding the knife blade very flat a sharp edge can be readily produced, but is so very thin that it is easily broken and the blade is marred by jagged nicks.

"The men who are employed in factories to sharpen the best grade of knives hold the blade at an angle of about 45 degrees and really sharpen only the cutting edge itself. This method leaves the blade behind the immediate point of contact sufficiently thick and strong to stand any ordinary usage."

PRESIDENT AND MRS. GALT SPEND THE DAY IN ANNAPOLIS.

Visit Various Places of Interest and Lunch at a Hotel.

Washington, Oct. 30.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, motored to Annapolis, Md., today, leaving Washington early in the morning and returning at dusk. They lunched at an Annapolis hotel, afterward walking about the city, visiting the Naval Academy and the state capital, but declined an invitation to witness the football game between the Navy and Agricultural and Mechanical College of North Carolina.

Reports circulated in official quarters today that an announcement of the President's wedding date was to be made tonight, proved to be erroneous. It also was rumored that Monday, November 15, has been decided upon for the wedding, but this lacked verification.

The President and Mrs. Galt will visit Shadow Lawn, the future summer "White House", near Long Branch, N. J., next Friday. Thursday night the President will address the Manhattan Club, of New York, on preparedness.

COTTON PRICES UNSETTLED

Weak Cables and Good Weather Check Buying—January Closed at $12.24—Spot Price $12.35.

New York, Oct. 30.—Relatively weak cables and continued good weather in the South seemed to check the buying movement which was so prominent during yesterday's trading and business in the cotton market today was comparatively quiet with fluctuations irregular. January contracts sold off to 12.15 early, but rallied to 12.24, and the market closed steady within a point or two of the best, net unchanged to four points lower. The local market opened steady at a decline of 6 to 8 points which was only a partial response to the decline abroad, and active months sold off to a net loss of some 9 to 10 points right after the call with March touching 12.38 and May 12.49. There was moderate support from the so-called bull brokers and prices soon steadied on covering which became a little more active toward the close. March sold up to 12.45 and May to 12.59, or about 11 points above the low level of the morning.

General business was quiet. Cables from Manchester complained of a shortage of labor and said that report again was on foot for great discrimination in the matter of enlistments. Reports from the domestic goods trade indicated some irregularity owing to the recent violent fluctuations in futures and slightly easier prices of second hands, but western dry goods distributors are said to be unusually active with a large demand for both prompt and spring shipment.

Futures closed steady.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Week-End Market Was Quiet—Net Loss of 3 to 5 Points.

New Orleans, Oct. 30.—It was a quiet week-end session in the cotton market today with buyers of yesterday rather inclined to let go of their cotton. Liverpool's cables and good weather over the belt also tended to hold down prices. Around the opening active months were 12 to 15 points under yesterday's close. Reports from Texas that holders were refusing to trade in spots and the rumor that Rumania had joined the entente allies gave the market a steadier tone and the close was within a point of the highest a net loss of 3 to 5 points.

The export movement for the week was considered small—only 136,000 bales—and it called forth considerable bearish comment. Bearish features in the statistical statement, however, were offset by the comparatively large mill takings for the week 336,000 bales.

Monday will be a legal holiday in this market and future trading will be suspended.

Closed steady: December closed 11.94, January 12.11, March 12.34, May 12.49, July 12.58.

Spot cotton quiet, unchanged, middling 11.75; sales on the spot 53 bales, to arrive 1,600.

RAILWAYS STILL IN DEMAND

Other Investment Shares Also Featured Yesterday in Stocks—Exchange Was Again Weak.

New York, Oct. 30.—There was a continuance today of the brisk demand for railway and other investment shares which marked yesterday's active session. Stocks were strong, though receding fractionally at intervals from heavy profit taking. War shares were most conspicuous in the initial dealings, but that group gave way to such seasoned shares as the Harrimans and Hills, Norfolk & Western, New York Central, Reading and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Union Pacific rose 2 3-8 to 139 1-2; Southern Pacific 2 1-4 to 102; and Chesapeake rose 3 to 62 3-4. Some of these prices represented highest quotations for a year or more.

United States Steel was again the cynosure of speculative attention, opening with 7,500 shares at 88 an advance of a half point and its maximum since 1910.

Later it made a further gain to 88 1-4, but at that level selling orders stopped the rise. Steel closed at 87 7-8. Metal shares were in further demand, Anaconda Copper advancing to the new high price of 83 7-8. Utah, Inspiration and Guggenheim were active at moderate advances

Automobile stocks afforded some diversion, General Motors rising almost 40 points to the new record of 395, and Willys Overland rose 12 to 262. Maxwells, Studebaker, Baldwin Locomotive and General Electric gained 2 to 3 points. Bethlehem Steel was again reactionary, a single sale of 100 shares showing a loss of 15 1-4, at 524 3-4.

There was a sudden renewal of weakness in exchange, demand sterling losing most of its recent recovery.

Bonds showed increased strength on the moderate turn-over of about $3,000,000, par value. United States bonds were unchanged on call during the week.

NO BELGIANS CONDEMNED

Gerard Reports on His Inquiry Made Recently at Liege.

The ambassador's inquiry was made at the instance of the Belgian minister here, and he was instructed to use his good offices in behalf of about thirty Belgians, reported to be under sentence of death at Liege. Will Act Upon Germany's Request if Russia and Allies Consent.
